

Could Andover recycle like this?

By Don Staruk

Next week Andover should find out what it is going to cost for a comprehensive recycling program to be part of curbside trash collection. Bids for such a program are due to be opened Wednesday afternoon,

May 23.

In case curbside recycling turns out to be prohibitively expensive, the town is also considering establishing a drop-off recycling station as another alternative.

Both options are already being used in towns comparable to Andover and are working successfully, according to their respective employers.

Michael is profoundly deaf. He has been since birth. Without the help of hearing aids, Michael can only hear about 5 to 10 percent of what the average person does.

A recent visitor sat in the kitchen of his parents' home

BTL Corp. is on schedule for closing

Concern remains about what's left behind

By Don Staruk

A chemical company on Lowell Junction Road has cooperated with town officials for the past three months in closing down its operations for a move out of town, but concern remains about what is being left behind.

Everett Penney, Andover's health director, is not too concerned with the chemicals stored on the property of BTL Specialty Resins Corp. at 77 Lowell Junction Road. The company has been working closely with the town to remove those and dispose of them properly.

But a 3-year-old chemical spill and a possible hazardous materials dump on the property do present reason for concern, according to Mr. Penney.

"There is evidence of barrels being bur-

Kenneth Mahony plans his own subdivision

By Don Staruk

Former Town Manager Kenneth Mahony Monday night withdrew a three-lot subdivision plan he had submitted to the Planning Board for his Salem Street property. But he could have a new version of the plan in for consideration by tomorrow.

The Heather Subdivision, at 228 Salem St., would divide Mr. Mahony's property into three lots: the 2.67-acre piece his house is on and two new 1-acre parcels.

The plan was reviewed last week by the Planning Board, which found two or three problems with the proposal. Monday, at the Board of Health review, Mr. Mahony withdrew the plan, according to Health Director Everett F. Penney.

"The Board of Health did its normal review of the subdivision plan and engineering data and indicated that, because

NEWS IN BRIEF

John J. Desmond

J. Desmond opposing Sue Tucker

John J. Desmond announced his candidacy for the Massachusetts House of Representatives recently. He would represent the 17th Essex District, which includes Andover and five precincts in Lawrence, which include the Tower Hill area and precincts E-1, E-2, E-3 and F-5 in South Lawrence. He will be opposing Rep. Susan Tucker (D-Andover).

Mr. Desmond and his wife, Cynthia, have two sons, John and Jeff. They live at 129 Andover St. He is 38 years old and has been a teacher of history and government in the Billerica school system for the past 15 years. Mr. Desmond has a bachelor of science degree in history from Lowell State College and a master's degree in education from Fitchburg State College.

His father, John J. Desmond Sr., served on the Lowell City Council from 1958 to 1965 and as a legislator in the House of Representatives from 1965 to 1972.

Mr. Desmond said he believes voters in his district need and deserve a representative who will be "more aggressive and outspoken" on their behalf.

"Rep. Tucker's failure to speak out over the past two years against the abuses of the Dukakis administration demonstrates her weakness as a legislator," he said.

"Anyone who was in a position to stand up and speak out against Dukakis' betrayal of the people but didn't is just as much to blame for the economic demise of our state and local governments as the Dukakis administration itself," he said.

Mr. Desmond believes that welfare reform should be a top priority during the next legislative session and the streamlining of most state programs is an absolute necessity in order that people who truly need them will receive the benefits those programs provide. He believes that it is "disgraceful" that the elderly, students, handicapped and working class people should be victimized by poor management and silent legislators.

Group adding new flags to vets' graves

The Patriotic Holiday Committee and local veterans organizations will replace American flags on the graves of all veterans interred in Andover cemeteries.

Members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post #2128, and the American Legion, Post #8, will meet at veterans headquarters in Doherty Middle School on Sunday, May 20, at 11 a.m. to carry out this activity.

Able-bodied members of both posts are needed as there are more than 1,200 graves to honor.

Thomas Mullings

Intern joins the Townsman

Thomas Mullings joins the Andover Townsman as an intern with this week's issue. A senior at Fitchburg State College, he expects to graduate next fall. Mr. Mullings is majoring in English/professional writing at FSC, with a strong interest in the journalism field.

"That is why I am here," said Mr. Mullings. "In my search for more journalistic experience, which is so important in this field, I applied to the Townsman in late March. Then in early May, Perry Catlin, the editor, contacted me about a part-time position, which I gladly and quickly accepted."

Mr. Mullings will be on the general assignment desk. That means you will see his byline on a variety of stories, from feature to news. He also will take photos. This week he dropped by Andover High School to ask students about Saturday's prom. That information is included in Towntalk. His byline is on other stories in today's paper.

This past college semester, he interned at the Fitchburg Sentinel & Enterprise, a daily newspaper with a circulation of about 22,000. For 15 weeks, he was exposed to the workings of a city newspaper. During Mr. Mullings' stay there, he wrote for various editorial departments, including features, political meetings, police, sports and living/arts.

Mr. Mullings also was involved with his college newspaper, The Strobe, where he is a news and feature writer, as well as a former copy editor.

Mr. Mullings was born in Lawrence and he lives in Methuen.

"And for those of you who shop in the Methuen Mall, you may also find me flipping burgers at the local McDonald's near there, my other part-time, summer occupation."

Mary Lyman has resigned

Mary Kelvie Lyman, Andover's personnel director for the past five years, resigned effective July 13. Town and school personnel accepted her resignation May 8.

Ms. Lyman and her husband, James, are expecting a baby in November. She said she does not expect to return to her position.

"I thought about maternity leave, but decided against it," she said.

"I'm one of those people who would have felt that I should be at work if I didn't quit all together."

During her tenure with the town she has helped place a town manager, high school principal, two elementary principals and a director of the town's municipal maintenance.

Ms. Lyman is currently assisting the School Committee with its search for a new superintendent of schools. If her health permits, she said she will continue to assist the committee over the summer as much as she can.

Saturday registration will be available on May 19 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Evening registration will be available on Tuesday, May 22, when the clerk's office will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Dog needs a home

There is a small black Lhasa Apso dog at the Andover Animal Hospital, the holding facility for dogs picked up by the animal control officer in Andover.

The dog is male, about 4 or 5 years old, and has a sweet disposition, according to Diane Johnson, administrator at the facility. He also is in good health. If you'd like to meet the dog, call the hospital.

OPEN DAILY, EVENINGS, WEEKENDS

TOWNTALK

This past weekend was not a typical one for many juniors and seniors at Andover High School. Saturday about 330 students arrived at the Andover Marriott on Old River Road at 6:30 p.m. and stayed until 12:30 a.m. to celebrate their annual prom.

The majority of students with whom we spoke, many being veterans of past proms, said this year's was one of the best.

Adam Clark, senior class president and prom aficionado, said he was impressed with this particular prom. "I thought this year's prom was one of the better ones," he said. "I'd put it in the top two."

Jeff Ring, a senior, said he also was satisfied with the prom. "It was a good time. And the DJ was real good, too," Ring said. "And Michelle Distefano's party was fun."

Erin Lynch, a senior, said she liked 1990's prom more than '89's because the Andover Marriott was a better prom site than the Lowell Hilton. Randy Ying, also a senior, agreed with Ms. Lynch's criticism. "It was better than last year's because there was a lot more room (to dance)," Mr. Ying said.

However, '90's prom didn't receive a unanimous decision. Jennifer Recesso, a junior, favored '89's prom. "The music was much better last year," she said.

Ms. Recesso's conclusion cannot be connected to her prom date, either. Both years she was accompanied by Jeff Conley, a senior.

A prom's cuisine is often under the severe scrutiny of students. This year was no different; most did not appreciate the fowl that was prepared for them.

"The food was gross. I didn't like the chicken," said Kelly Miskell, a junior, whose comments seemed to represent others' feelings.

One couple unable to attend the prom was Karen Tracy and Mark Grillo, both seniors, who tried buying tickets after the deadline. Mr. Grillo said he was disappointed they were unable to attend.

Again, most of the students said they had a good time. And Bob Buonopane, a senior, has the key to insuring a good time at one's prom. "You can only enjoy it if you go with someone you like," he said.

Linnea Gershenberg, principal of the Early Childhood Center at Shawsheen School, celebrated a very special Mother's Day this past Sunday at her home, 162 Lowell St. She and her husband, Irving, had a good reason to celebrate. Their daughter, Sarah, a Peace Corps volunteer assigned in Liberia, Africa, returned home safely after weeks of dangerous conditions in the civil-war torn country.

The 12-foot-tall stuffed Kodiak brown bear displayed at Memorial Hall Library is a big hit, says Norma Gammon, the library's community liaison. "Every child that comes into the library has to go and see that bear," she said. It has become so popular, says Mrs. Gammon, that people are bringing in their still cameras and video cameras to take pictures of themselves next to the bear to send to friends and families.

Townsmen seeks recycling ideas for small film canisters

By Thomas Mullings

The Townsman is accepting recycling ideas for plastic film canisters in its environmental contest. The person with the best idea will receive a sapling, to be awarded during the Townsman's open house, Saturday, June 2.

Two knowledgeable people, however, are suggesting the containers not be used for food, and for two different reasons.

The Townsman reported in the May 10 issue that a person was sending rations of powdered milk in the canisters to Africa. David Hastings, a chemistry professor at Tufts University and a resident of Andover, said he is concerned if people use the "toxic" containers for food.

Mr. Hastings said film, and not food, should be stored in the canisters.

"They are used for storing film, period," Mr. Hastings said. "They are not made for storing food."

James Blamphin, a spokesman for Eastman Kodak Company in Rochester, N.Y., disagrees. There are no toxins in canisters and food can be put inside them, he said.

However, Mr. Blamphin said Kodak does not suggest using them for those purposes.

"Kodak doesn't recommend using the canisters for food stuff," he said. "It is not because of any toxins. It is because the container wasn't designed for foodstuff but, rather, for industrial containment."

Mr. Blamphin said the only chemical found in the canisters is silicone, located in the cap. The silicone is necessary for creating a seal.

He said the silicone does not pose a threat. "It won't hurt anyone," he said.

While Mr. Hastings said plastic film canisters do not make the best toy for children, Mr. Blamphin said it is all right, just as long as they are washed and the cap is removed for young children.

All entries should be sent to the Townsman office on or before May 30. Multiple entries are welcomed. The Townsman staff will judge the entries.

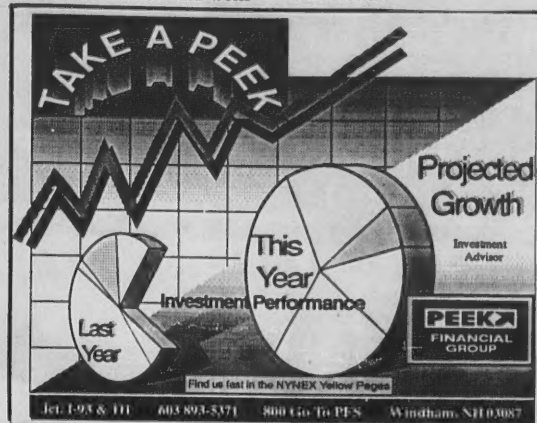

Some advice for small businesses

A Small Business Administration-sponsored pre-business workshop will be held at the Lawrence Public Library, 51 Lawrence St., Saturday, May 19, from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The workshop, presented by the Service Corps of Retired Executives for men and women who recently started or are considering starting businesses, will cover financing, marketing and advertising, legal considerations and record-keeping.

A $25 registration fee covers instructional material and refreshments.

BUSINESS

The mall at 28 Chestnut St. is beginning to fill up with tenants.

Three new stores open at Chestnut Street mini-mall

By Lisa A. Boudreau

Shoppers at the downtown mall at 28 Chestnut St. have three new stores to patronize. Joining the Earth Food Store at the location are two stores that cater to children and one custom framing, print and handmade crafts store.

Gallery Uptown
The Gallery Uptown, located at 90 Main St. for the past eight years, opened for business in the mall's balcony level two weeks ago.

It offers custom framing, limited-edition prints, jewelry and signed handcrafts and pottery, said owner Susanne McGravey. All of the artisans' work displayed in the shop is made in America and some is produced by New England craftspeople, she said.

The location change to Chestnut Street meant giving up floor space, said Ms. McGravey, but dropping to a little more than 820 square feet was worth it. She said she had too much space in her former location and the new Chestnut Street store is working out well.

"This (location) is great. What's not to like about it? It's big, bright, airy," she said.

Rugged Bear

The latest shop to open at the mall is the Rugged Bear, a children's outdoor clothing store. It is located on the plaza level of the mall.

Outdoor clothing isn't the only merchandise the store carries, said Marilyn Heart, store manager.

"We can outfit a child for any occasion, outdoor and indoor play, though we are best known for our quality outerwear," she said.

"Quality outerwear," said Ms. Heart, is made of 100 percent cotton, which is used in most of the store's clothing. She said the clothes are durable. Boys' and girls' clothing sizes range from infant to adolescent 20. A bright range of rainbow colors fills the 3,000 square feet of display space.

The Rugged Bear has been in the business of outfitting children for nine years and has eight other stores in Massachusetts and two in New Hampshire.

Learning Express

The Learning Express, an educational toy store, will open this Saturday, May 19, on the balcony-level of the mall. Owner Sharon DiMinico said the store provides many different items to entertain children as well as educate them.

"We are a toy store with a strong educational focus," she said.

The store has won many awards for its commitment to providing non-violent toys for children. Ms. DiMinico said the store also carries a variety of party decorations and favors.

"We'll have many things for under $5," she said, "things that children can buy with their birthday or allowance money."

The design of the 2,500 square-foot of floor space is open and has a hands-on area for children to test the toys.

"We have designed the store with the shelves all around the perimeter. That way the children can play with the toys in the middle of the store and their parents will never lose sight of them," said Ms. DiMinico.

The Learning Express is a 3½-year-old company with three other Massachusetts locations and one Connecticut store.

The Andover store also will offer free, in-store activities twice each week for children, said Ms. DiMinico.

"A couple times each week we will have puppet shows, or reading hours or crafts children can do," she said.

Times for these activities will be announced once the store opens this weekend. Ms. DiMinico is planning a large celebration with balloons, clowns and other activities.

He's a director

Imaging Technology Incorporated announced that Stephen R. Silver of Andover, president, has been elected to the Automated Imaging Association's (AIA) board of directors.

The AIA, formerly the AVA (Automated Vision Association), is dedicated to promoting the acceptance and use of image processing, image analysis and machine vision technologies for scientific and industrial applications. AIA's membership includes manufacturers of related and peripheral products, system integrators, end-users, consultants and research groups involved with these technologies.

Mr. Silver has been in the electronic imaging business for more than 20 years and was a founding partner of Imaging Technology Incorporated in 1982. He was named Electronic Imaging Businessman of the Year in 1989. Prior to joining Imaging Technology, Mr. Silver was vice president of marketing and sales at Hendrix Electronics Incorporated. Before that, he was employed in sales and sales management for RCA's Graphic Systems Division. Mr. Silver graduated from Carnegie-Mellon University with a bachelor of science degree in administrative management science.

Hunter of Andover is a new member of the board of directors of Celebrate Discovery Inc., an organization created by the Massachusetts Christopher Columbus Quincentennial Commission to spearhead numerous celebratory activities, including community initiatives that celebrate cultural diversity and statewide programs that highlight the innovations and discoveries made in Massachusetts.

Mr. Hunter, TWA passenger sales manager, joined TWA in 1956, rising to his current position for all passenger sales in the New England area in 1975.

He has traveled extensively throughout the world, with one of his most notable assignments being the coordination of White House Press Charters under the Nixon and Ford administrations.

Mr. Hunter has received numerous sales awards and is presently a member of the Executive Club of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, American Society of Travel Agents and vice president of the SKAL Club of Boston, a travel industry association.

Local realtors attend event

Christopher S. Doherty, president; Virginia Broadhurst, president-elect; Kathleen I. Boshar, executive officer; Eileen Everett, chairman, Government Affairs Committee; and Wendy Perkins, past president of the Greater Lawrence Board of Realtors Inc., Methuen, were among nearly 6,500 realtors and guests attending the National Association of Realtors 1990 midyear conference in Washington, D.C., recently.

The midyear conference brings together more than 100 committees and the boards of director responsible for all facets of the association's business and many U.S. legislators involved in issues, such as affordable housing.

The Greater Lawrence delegation of realtors discussed the need to allow first-time buyers to use IRA savings to purchase a home. Realtor President Chris Doherty noted that an amendment to the current IRA proposals to allow parents and grandparents of first-time homebuyers to use IRA withdrawal for their child's/grandchild's/spouse's purchase of a first home was favorably received by the legislatures.

Marshalls expanding

Marshalls Inc., the nation's largest off-price fashion retailer, has announced it will open its doors in North Attleboro this fall and will relocate and expand its Tewksbury store by spring 1991. The company's headquarters are located at 200 Brickstone Square.

Gardner takes therapist job

Stephanie Gardner, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Howard M. Gardner of 5 Alden Road, has accepted a position as a staff physical therapist at the Rusk Institute of Rehabilitation, a division of New York University Medical Center in New York City.

Ms. Gardner, a 1985 graduate of Governor Dummer Academy and a 1989 graduate of Boston University Sargent College of Allied Health Professions, recently passed her board examinations

What's next, now that Earth Day's over?

By Virginia Cole

We have had Earth Day 1990, both successfully in Andover and, it seems, everywhere else as well.

So we learned a lot, much to be scared about and some suggestions of what to do. What's next? What is next for each of you individually? If you already do all the recycling things possible in Andover, are there other things you should and can do?

The Conservation Law Foundation has put out a list. Everyone has put out a list, but this one looks reasonable and possible.

At home: Recycle paper, glass and plastic and returnable bottles. Compost yard waste. Re-use durable containers such as coffee cans, glass bottles and squeeze bottles. Try to find a worthy home for no longer wanted furniture and clothing. Thrift shops are a good place to start.

At the grocery store: Ask for paper bags, buy products with as little packaging as possible, avoid disposable products, look for products with the recycle symbols. There are two symbols now. The one with the arrows going in a circle means the product can be recycled; the one with a green tree in a green circle means it is made of recycled paper. Try to buy things that can be recycled locally. For us that means glass and plastic, not steel cans nor wax covered paper containers.

At work: Try to get a recycling program going, especially for paper. Use a mug unless you are recycling Styrofoam cups. Talk up recycling with co-workers.

In the community: This is where Andover needs help. Write or call your selectmen. Do you feel recycling should be a priority? Then you have to say so. Letters to the editor are a good idea. Hopefully, the important people will read them but they also can encourage others to help improve recycling here. Andover is falling behind other communities. Will Earth Day enthusiasm be enough to keep Andover moving ahead?

Lobby for solid waste billing that encourages recycling. Limiting the number of bags of trash allowed is one suggestion. Having waste bags cost whatever it costs the taxpayer to dispose of them is another. Find out how much waste collection costs you and make your own suggestions to lessen this cost. Wouldn't you rather have your scarce tax dollars spent on

Private finishes training

Army Reserve squad. Pvt. William J. Atchison completed training at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga. Students received training that qualified them as light-weapons infantrymen and indirect-fire crewmen in a rifle or mortar schools? Policemen? Road improvement?

Of course, Earth Day was more than just recycling. We just don't know any easier way for each individual to get involved in saving the environment.

AIDS assembly gets students' sympathy

By Eliza Hoyt

"I don't know if you can hear them, but in Romania cries echo from about 1,000 babies infected with the AIDS virus due to misguided medical care."

There was silence as Dr. William Griffo and photographer Michael Carroll shared their compassion for AIDS-infected children in Romania with a little over 900 students at Andover High School May 9.

Students listened to Dr. Griffo's clarification of the medical aspects of the AIDS virus. He explained the effects of AIDS on Romania, a nation of deprivation.

Mr. Carroll presented a slide show that bore witness to the tragedy in Romania.

"The slide presentation was really something that got to you because it made it real. You came out thinking and wanting to do something," said Dede Sullivan.

Kyle Blais said the assembly was an important lesson. "I was really surprised at what I learned, the lack of education and the ignorance of the common people toward the disease itself."

Smiles appeared on the faces of the audience when a slide of "mass potty training" pictured about 10 2-year-olds in an orphanage making their once-a-day visit to the bathroom. Then a baby appeared malnourished and skeletal with sad eyes. The next slide was of a baby reaching out to one of the few nurses, hoping to be touched for just one moment.

"It seems like we've gotten to the point where our people are educated, but we're not thinking about people elsewhere," Mr. Blais said.

Laura Boutureira agreed. "I think the assembly presented an issue of great importance that pertains to something outside the United States. I feel Americans tend to focus on problems within our country and forget that we should help people in other countries as well as ourselves," she said.

Student Karleene Anderson said the assembly gave her a good idea of what it's like in Romania and incentive to help. "Helping causes like these gives me a sense of goodness," Ms. Anderson said. "I am glad I can help other people even though I do not know them."

Andover High, several elementary schools, Christ Church and a few companies are holding a drive for baby blankets, toys and clothes.

Ms. Hoyt is an Andover High senior and helped organize the AIDS assembly.

Andover student participates in mock Arab convention

An Andover resident was among a dozen University of Lowell students in the College of Arts and Sciences who participated in a recent Arab-sponsored congress in Washington, D.C.

Lena Robinson of 14 Longwood Drive was among 164 students from 20 colleges and universities from around the country in discussions about issues of interest to the Arab world as a delegate member of the 1990 National Model League of Arab States convention.

She was one of a team of ULowell students, who represented Egypt and Somalia. Various schools represented different countries in the debates. The program was co-sponsored by the National Council on U.S.-Arab Relations, Arab League of Information Office and National U.S.-Arab Chamber of Commerce.

Each delegation participated in educational and embassy briefings hosted by diplomats and scholars representing those nations to the United States.

Ms. Robinson was named the best delegate on her committee.

The student committees reported 102 resolutions for final consideration; 45 were adopted. A report on all activities and resolutions stemming from the 1990 National Model League of Arab States has been requested by the League of Arab States as well as individual embassies in Washington, D.C.

Freshman wins achievement award

Taylor Ongaro of Andover was among 11 University of Vermont students who received outstanding achievement awards April 23. He was among thousands nominated for service to the campus, city and other communities.

Mr. Ongaro was named outstanding achievement male winner for the class of 1993. He started working with the Vermont Student Environmental Program as soon as he came to campus and is the organization's treasurer. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Ted Ongaro.

The goal of VSTEP is to provide students and the community with resources and skills to solve environmental problems. Its programs include youth education outreach, Earth Day activities, recycling and source reduction techniques. VSTEP also won a special award at the university's assembly.

11 from Andover in gifted program

Eleven Andover students have been accepted into a program for bright children.

Mark Tompkins, Mark Perkin, Peter Raddocchia, Jay Volinski, Mark Ewalt, Jesse Recinos, David Saladini, Daniel Costello, Charlie Nabhan, Brian London and Joanna Mandell Zimmer will attend College Academy at Bradford College this summer.

The College Academy program was founded in 1979 for bright children in grades four through eight. The youngsters take classes in art, humanities, math, science and special-interest courses like magic and rocketry.

Resident graduates from California law school

Henry Lebensbaum of Andover recently graduated from California Western School of Law in San Diego. Before attending law school, he worked as a school psychologist and management consultant.

Mr. Lebensbaum was on the dean's list and a member of Phi Alpha Delta. Listed in Who's Who: American Law Schools, he received an American Jurisprudence Award and a special academic award for excellence in the study of tax law. A graduate of City College of New York (now City University of New York), Mr. Lebensbaum earned his master of arts degree at Albert University.

Kevin Wreghitt and, behind him, Jessica Peroni of Andover were named to a psychology honor society.

Students in honor society

Northern Essex Community College recently inducted 10 students into the college's chapter of Psi Beta, a national psychology honor society for two-year colleges.

Jessica Peroni and Kevin Wreghitt of Andover were among them. Ms. Peroni was also appointed president of the organization.

Students must have an above-average academic standing and be recommended by a faculty member for induction into the honor society.

Dr. Patricia Cronin, chairwoman of the division of human services at Bradford College, addressed the new members.

Residents help academic team win championship

The St. John's Preparatory School Academic (College Bowl) team captured the North Shore League and Massachusetts State championships recently.

Prep students from Andover who were members of the Academic College Bowl team this year are sophomore Adam Finelli and senior Chris Tomkinson.

In the league championship, held at the Waring School in Beverly, a St. John's quartet came from more than 100 points behind with about three minutes remaining to edge out the Hamilton-Wenham team.

The Prep team tied with Newton High School in the final round and earned the State High School Academic Team title by correctly answering the tie-breaker question.

This victory represents the school's second state title in three years and qualified St. John's to represent Massachusetts in the national championships at Rice University in Houston, Texas, in early June. Members of the two top teams received cash prizes from tournament sponsor Bain and Co. of Boston.

Andover senior wins scholarship

Andover High School senior Melissa Salazar has been awarded a Chancellor's Scholarship at the University of California at Berkeley. This appointment is the most distinguished recognition offered to entering students by the Berkeley campus, officials said.

Chancellor's Scholarships are awarded annually to students who demonstrate outstanding intellectual and leadership abilities, they said. Approximately 1,000 students are considered for 228 scholarships in a freshman class of 6,000.

Ms. Salazar is the daughter of Andres and Jean Salazar of Salem Street. She is one of seven National Merit finalists in the Andover High senior class. She will enter Berkeley's College of Chemistry in the fall.

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

It is a fact! Fathers really do get morning sickness. This common condition is called "couvade syndrome"—a condition which expectant fathers experience physical and psychological symptoms of pregnancy: the condition disappears soon after their wife gives birth. The "couvade syndrome" (taken from the French verb "couvrir, to hatch") originally referred to the practice among non-Western peoples in which fathers participate in birth rituals. The husband lies in bed during the birth of his child, complains of labor pains, and acts just like the pregnant wife. In our own culture, the syndrome is based on a structure of anxiety, doubts, basic needs and concerns. Involving the husband, talking about problems and releasing tension during pregnancy helps a great deal.

Nursery school students learn about other cultures

By Gerry Deyermund

The children of the Andover Village Nursery School have been learning about foreign countries, including Ireland, Scotland, Russia, Australia and Japan.

Two students this year are from Ireland. They shared badges, a traditional craft children make in Ireland on St. Patrick's Day, and the children were able to make their own.

Students acted out an Irish folk tale called "The Rise and Fall of Bacheath," a story about old Irish hospitality.

Doug Hamilton and his son, Iain, started off a week on Scotland. Doug and Iain are the husband and son of teacher Linda Hamilton. The elder Hamilton played the bagpipes as the children marched around the playground. He talked about his kilt and how the different plaids symbolize which Scottish family you belong to.

The class joined Iain in some Scottish tunes as he played the fiddle. The children created a castle out of a refrigerator box, which they equipped with a working drawbridge. The dressed-up kings, queens, princesses and knights were encouraged to create their own castles with blocks, paper and glue.

The children learned a Russian game called "ring, ring, jump right in" from a family from Moscow, which is something like "duck, duck, goose," but is played with a ring or other small object.

The students listened to children's songs in Russian, looked at pictures of Russia and read children's stories.

Koalas, kangaroos and the Great Barrier Reef were the highlights of a session on Australia. The children learned that kangaroos carry their young in pockets in their stomachs and koalas eat only eucalyptus leaves.

The children constructed their own Great Barrier Reef. They painted murals on the classroom wall in shades of pink, orange and purple to symbolize coral. They made three-dimensional clown and angel fish and great white sharks and hung them from the ceiling as if they were swimming among the coral.

The children were able to pretend they were operating their own submarine or scuba diving in the reef. As Earth Day approached, the class talked of the ecology of the reef and how Australians are

Special-needs camp open to all

The Department of Community Services will hold a day camp for children and teens 7 and up beginning July 2. Camp Hurrah is especially geared to special-needs youngsters but is open to all. It will be housed on the grounds of Phillips Academy and stresses "a non-competitive atmosphere where the main ingredient for everyone is having fun," said director Drew Bililies.

Campers will take part in karate, art, drama, field trips and swimming in the PA pool. The individualized program stresses developing self-confidence, Mr. Bililies said.

Registration is limited and in progress. Call the DCS or Mr. Bililies at (617) 275-0023.

Y registers campers

The Andover/North Andover branch of the Merrimack Valley YMCA is accepting registrations for its summer vacation program for children ages 5 to 12 held at Faith Lutheran Church in Andover.

The program is offered in four two-week sessions July 2 through Aug. 24. Children may be signed up for two, three or five days a week. The day begins at 9 a.m. and ends at 4 p.m. Extended hours are available.

Children can take part in games, crafts, movies, field trips and swimming lessons.

Special programming will be held June 19 to 29 at the YMCA, 165 Haverhill St., and Aug. 27 to 31 at Faith Lutheran.

Youngsters can learn local history

A history camp for 8- to 13-year-olds will be held June 25-29 by the Museum of American Textile History and the North Andover Historical Society.

The camp will meet Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Activities begin Monday with tours of the Museum of American Textile History, North Andover Historical Society, Academy Road and the First Burying Ground.

Tuesday's schedule includes a weaving workshop at the museum, lunch on the Old North Andover Common, a walking tour of the Old Center and a crafts session to make historical hats.

A dyeing workshop at the museum on Wednesday will be followed by stories and games with storyteller Sharon Kennedy.

A quilting bee will be held at the North Andover Historical Society on Thursday followed by dancing, penmanship and a chance to finish the week's projects. The highlight of the program will be Friday's preparation of an historic feast of stew, butter, cider and cornmeal, followed by a dance presentation for parents.

Campers will bring their lunches, except on Friday. Morning and afternoon snacks will be provided daily. Registration is limited to 20 children. The cost is $100. A $10 discount will be given to members of the museum or historical society. A $25 deposit should be sent to the Museum of American Textile History, 800 Massachusetts Ave., North Andover 01845.

The Municipal Investment Trust Fund, Massachusetts Insured Series, is designed for Massachusetts investors who are interested in an attractive return from Municipal Bonds and concerned with minimizing their taxes. The Municipal Bonds in this portfolio are rated AAA as insured.

As you see from the chart, you would have to earn a much higher rate of taxable income to equal what a double tax-free MITF allows you to keep.

With the MITF Insured Series, investors also have an extra measure of comfort. Timely payment of interest and principal from the underlying bonds is guaranteed by independent insurance companies. Of course, unit prices will fluctuate because insurance does not remove market risk and is subject to the financial condition of the insurer. Terms of the insurance are more fully described in the prospectus.

While securities in the portfolio pay interest semiannually or annually, the trust will make monthly distributions of net interest income.

a day on Japan. "Ohayo" means "good morning" in Japanese. The girls tried on a kimono, and the boys a yukata. This type of dress is worn for ceremonial purposes.

Japanese kids wear uniforms to nursery school and concentrate on fine motor skills by eating with chopsticks and learning origami, the art of paper folding. They play the same games American children do. They read Winnie the Pooh and Mickey Mouse books, play with Transformers and visit McDonald's for lunch.

The class learned to count one through five in Japanese: ichi, ni, san, shi, go. They tried to eat rice with chopsticks. Manners are learned at the snack table; "dozo" means "please" and "domo" means "thank you" in Japan. As the children left after their day sampling a bit of Japan, they called back to Mrs. Lynch and Mrs. Hamilton: "Sayonara."

Doug Hamilton talks about the bagpipe. He and his son, Iain, told students about Scottish traditions and music.

Students take chemistry challenge

Students and teachers from 14 high schools in Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire, including Andover High School, recently participated in the University of Lowell's second annual Chemical Challenge.

The event, sponsored by ULowell's chemistry department, enabled more than 60 students to compete for recognition and prizes.

After a short multiple choice examination and laboratory exercise, 18 of the highest scoring students were awarded calculators, including Michelle Hebert, an Andover High student.

A certificate of participation and T-shirt were presented to all participants, including Andover High's Jenn Galvin, Michelle Hebert, John Bishop and Sean Corcoran.

Chemistry faculty, staff and undergraduate and graduate students organized and participated in research and teaching demonstrations.

Physics Professor Ken Skrable gave an overview and tour of the Energy Center.

Local blood pressure clinic is free

The Andover Health Department and VNA HomeCare, in cooperation with the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, will conduct free blood pressure screening at Old Town Hall, 20 Main St., first floor, Friday, May 25, from noon to 4 p.m.

During May, National High Blood Pressure Month, the Department of Public Health's division of chronic disease prevention is sponsoring blood pressure screenings across the Commonwealth.

Hypertension, or high blood pressure, affects one in three Americans and, uncontrolled, can lead to stroke, heart attack and kidney problems. High blood pressure can often be treated by lifestyle measures, such as a change in eating habits, an increase in exercise, reduction of alcohol intake, or weight loss. Often called the silent killer, high blood pressure usually presents no symptoms.

Therefore, the Department of Public Health recommends adults have their blood pressure checked every year.

Members of 4-H judged in contest

By Sarah Hamilton

As part of Ironstone 4-H Club's membership requirements, all 24 members are judged annually on visual presentations and/or public speaking at club level. Leaders Richard A. Donovan and Deedee O'Brien were proud to announce that 11 from the Ironstone 4-H, of 456 Lowell St., were invited to compete at county and state levels at Essex Agricultural School in March and at Nashoba Regional High School in April, respectively.

They were Jamie Cistoldi, 13, of 21 Knollcrest Drive, whose topic was "Roman Architecture"; Hannah Edmands, 11, of 123 Salem St., "Herbs and their many Uses"; Debbie Faticanti, 16, of Lowell, "Feline Lukemia"; Jen Ghiloni, 13, of 6 Pheasant Run, "Rug Hooking"; Sarah Hamilton, 13, of 20 Clark Road, "Proper Tack Cleaning, Make your Saddle Shine"; Laurie Hopkins, 14, of Dracut, "Fox Hunting"; Katie McLune, 13, of 69 Reservation Road, "Making Wreaths"; Amy Pierro, 14, of 6 Pilgrim

Drive, "Ancient Olympic Games"; Jenn Rando, 13, of 39 Old County Road, "Downhill Skiing"; Christien Terris, 11, of Tewksbury, "Penguins"; and Amy Turner, 15, of Lowell, "Bucked Shins."

All returned home with blue and/or red ribbons — excellents and very goods.

Judges for 4-H follow a uniform rating system. One-quarter of rating for visual presentations is based on general appearance — voice, posture, manner. One-half of the rating is based on presentation — introduction to topic, necessary equipment, grammar and vocabulary, content and organization, time, workmanship (including visibility, illustrative materials, charts, posters, examples) and summary and results.

Final quarter of ratings is based on subject matter — selection, information and answering judges' questions. Junior 4-H'ers, 9 to 13 years old, must meet a three to 10-minute time limit. Seniors, 14 to 18 years old, have a seven to 10-minute time limit.

Recycling your paper

Curbside pick-up of paper for recycling is available every other week on the same day as trash pick-up. Newspapers and magazines should be tied or in grocery bags. Corrugated cardboard boxes should be collapsed and tied.

Recyclable paper needs to be at the curb by 7 a.m. on pick-up day.

Glass and plastic recycling is at the West Middle School on the first and third Saturday of every month, from 9 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Museum exhibits Amish quilts

The New England Quilt Museum in Lowell is sponsoring "Beacons from a Darkened World," an exhibit featuring Amish quilts through July 8.

Despite the fact that "developing individuality is considered prideful and 'of the world,' not the way of the Amish, the Amish woman has been able to develop her own individuality within the lifestyle, as stated in her quilts," said exhibit curator Dorothy G. Bosselman.

The theme of individual difference within a set of rules — the Ordnung of Amish life — apparent in quilts made by Amish women will be clearly demonstrated. The central feature of the exhibit is more than 30 quilts dating from around 1850 to the 1930s, representing the 12 states and Canada where Amish settlements were established before 1925.

The exhibit also includes antique clothing, toys and other artifacts, biblical quotes and vignettes showing common Amish activities.

Quilt guild holds show

The Merrimack Valley Quilt Guild will hold its 10th-anniversary quilt show at Universalist Unitarian Church, Kenosha Avenue, Haverhill, this weekend.

The show will be held Friday, May 18, from 5 to 9 p.m. and Saturday, May 19, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Admission is $3, $2 for seniors.

The show will include a retrospective of best-of-show quilts, Christmas, traditional, contemporary and antique quilts.

Mrs. Stebbins honored

A retirement reception in honor of kindergarten teacher Ruth Stebbins will be held Wednesday, May 23, at the Shawsheen School activity center from 4 to 6 p.m. Mrs. Stebbins will retire this year after 23 years of teaching in the Andover school system.

Friends and former students are welcome to come and sign a memory book to be given to Mrs. Stebbins at the end of the evening. Refreshments will be served.

Students perform original play in Andover

Students of Abundant Life Christian School in Wilmington will perform their spring play Saturday, May 19, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, May 20, at 3 p.m. at West Elementary School on Beacon Street.

An original production created, written and produced by the students and their families, "Walk This Way" centers around a 10-year-old girl who is tempted by a new friend to stray from her values, only to find herself in inner turmoil.

But Gabe, an angel who looks strangely like Mr. O'Toole, the school administrator, helps her to see the path to take.

Tickets are $5 for adults, $3 for children.

The play is sponsored by the Parent Fellowship of ALCS in cooperation with Brookridge Community Church.

Brass choir at church

The public is invited to an evening of brass music by the Posaunenchor (Brass Choir) of Evangelical Methodist Church of Stuttgart-Zuffenhausen, West Germany, at Faith Lutheran Church on Wednesday, May 30, at 7:30 p.m. A freewill offering will be taken.

Growing North Andover church seeks new location

The Fellowship Bible Church, located at the intersection of routes 114 and 125 in North Andover, is seeking a new location for their church and school facilities.

"We are lacking office, classroom, congregational and parking space," according to Pastor Joseph Stringer, founder of the Fellowship Church. "The congregation voted in favor of this move because we have outgrown this location."

The church is seeking a location that will provide additional sanctuary space and parking. Its criteria for a new location includes enough land to provide ballfields and a gymnasium for the school. Rev. Stringer anticipates a move sometime in 1991.

The Fellowship Bible Church was founded in 1964 and moved to its current location in 1969. The congregation continues to grow and includes more than 40 nationalities, Rev. Stringer said. The Fellowship Bible school was established in 1979 and has more than 60 students in its student body. A traditional classroom program is integrated with daily Bible study in kindergarten through 12th grade.

Singles group gets together

North of Boston Jewish Singles will hold a "Swing into Spring" dance Sunday, May 20, from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m. at Temple Emanuel of Andover. Disc jockey Gary Dawson will provide music. Refreshments will be served.

The cost is $7 members and $9 for non-members. There will be a $1 discount for those who arrive before 8:30. Adult Jewish singles of all ages are welcome.

A young Jewish singles group is underway. People between the ages of 21 and 30-something and interested in meeting new people are invited to a follow-up pizza and planning meeting Monday, May 21, at 7 p.m. at the temple. For more information, call the temple office.

B'nai B'Rith women plan dance

The Peace Chapter of B'nai Brith Women will hold its annual fund-raising dance Saturday, June 2, from 8 p.m. to midnight at Temple Emanuel of Andover.

B'nai Brith women is a Jewish women's organization that supports the Children's Home in Israel and other projects.

The theme of this year's dance is a beach party with dancing to the tunes of disc jockey Lance Margolis.

The $45 cost per couple includes a chicken dinner, drinks and dessert.

A baby shower for newborn infants was held at St. Augustine and St. Joseph Church in Andover on Mother's Day weekend to provide new baby clothes, diapers and financial gifts for babies and their mothers in the Andover community and at St. Margaret's Hospital in Dorchester. Mary Lee, left, and Angie Capomacio, of the parish pro-life committee, were in charge of the effort begun six years ago. The gifts were presented during the offertory procession at each of the Masses in the two churches.

Seniors get home cooking

Prescott House Nursing Home in North Andover will be the site of a Jewish senior citizens' luncheon May 23 at noon. A Jewish-style home-cooked meal will be served. Rabbi Harry Roth will speak. Make reservations at Temple Emanuel.

He was also appointed by Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach to serve as adviser for the U.S. Department of Justice and continued this service under Attorney General Ramsey Clark.

Professor Sheehan was instrumental in passing legislation establishing the first merit promotional system in the history of the Massachusetts State Police. He was also responsible for passing legislation allowing non-civil service personnel to work in various city and town police departments.

This piece of legislation allowed Northeastern University students in the College of Criminal Justice, which he established, to work in police departments and various government agencies through the cooperative education program.

In 1981, Professor Sheehan founded the National Academy of Criminal Justice where he developed and implemented the in-car training program," an audio cassette training program for municipal police agencies.

He also founded Robert Sheehan Associates/Police Management Consultants in 1962. Locally, he conducted full police management studies for Bellingham, Winchester, Provincetown, Westwood, Falmouth, Framingham, Salem, Beverly, Dartmouth, Brockton, Chelmsford, Gardner and Dedham.

He had also consulted for the Newark Police Department in New Jersey and Junction City Police Department in Kansas. In addition to police departments, he did consulting work for various states, colleges, law firms, corporations and media. He also served as lecturer and consultant to the Massachusetts State Police.

He served as a special agent in military intelligence in the U.S. Army Counter Intelligence Corps from 1955 to '57. After leaving the military, he went to Michigan State University where, between the years of 1957 and 1960, he served as assistant professor in the School of Police Administration and Public Safety.

In 1960, Professor Sheehan went to Northeastern University where he was associate professor and chairman of the department of law enforcement and security. He also served as director of the New England Police Institute through 1965.

In 1966 he became assistant dean and director of law enforcement and security programs at University College at Northeastern. Under a Ford Foundation grant, he went on to establish the university's College of Criminal Justice. He served as its founding dean from 1966 to '68. He was later appointed to full professor in January of 1968. He had been actively teaching at Northeastern up until this past quarter.

Professor Sheehan was born in Natick, son of Thomas W. and Ellen (Walls) Sheehan and had been a resident of Medway for the past 29 years. He previously lived in Natick.

Professor Sheehan attended Boston Latin School from 1944 to 1947 and graduated from Wellesley High School in 1948. He then went on to earn both his bachelor and master degrees of arts in sociology from Tufts University which he completed in 1953. He received an honorary doctor of jurisprudence from the New England School of Law in 1977.

He was a member of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences (of which he was president from 1967 to 1968 and vice president from '66 to '67) and the International Association of Chiefs of Police. He was frequently published in leading national trade journals and newspapers and co-authored three books relating to police administration and operations.

Prof. Sheehan

The only thing he can't do is hear

Michael as a baby interjected by his mother, Carol Clement, Michael talked about what it's like to be a teen-ager who happens to be deaf.

The two hearing aids Michael wears amplify all the sounds around him. He said as long as people speak clearly and there isn't too much background noise, he can understand what people are saying and carry on conversations without great difficulty.

"One time I really had trouble with a man who came from Ireland," he recalled. "I could hear him, but I couldn't understand anything he was saying."

Michael doesn't read lips, nor does he communicate through sign language.

"I tried to learn sign language a long time ago, but I really had no use for it. My hearing aids work really well in most situations," he said.

When Michael is in class at Andover High School, where he is a senior, his teachers wear a small amplifying box around their necks that allow their voices to be picked up while minimizing the background interference.

Communicating wasn't always this easy for Michael, his mother said. When he was about 6 or 7 months old, he began making the usual noises most babies make.

"Then, when he was about 8 or 9 months old he just stopped," said Mrs. Clement.

Michael is the youngest of four children. He has an older brother, Richard, and two older sisters, Christine and Pamela. Mrs. Clement was told by one doctor her youngest son may have stopped talking because the older children may have been communicating for him. That doctor told her not to worry.

Mrs. Clement said she was worried about Michael's development since birth because she had a very difficult delivery.

She was also getting very mixed signals about his progress. At the age of 1, Michael was completing puzzles and games designed for 2 and 3 year olds.

"I knew he was very bright, but I couldn't understand why he stopped talking all of a sudden," Mrs. Clement said.

At 19 months Michael's parents took him to a hearing specialist. Mrs. Clement said she was prompted to seek help because her son never seemed to hear her when she called his name.

With the proper diagnosis, Michael was finally able to get the help he needed. He began wearing hearing aids that enhanced what little hearing he had. Hearing aids 17 years ago weren't nearly as small as the compact models available today, Mrs. Clement remembered.

The hearing aids Michael wore back then were much larger and were attached to an amplifying box. Mrs. Clement became very adept at creating clothing with a specially designed pocket for the box. The most difficult challenge was creating a bib for Michael when he was a toddler so the box wouldn't get covered with food, she said.

Though she will never know for sure, Mrs. Clement believes her son's hearing loss had something to do with the trauma of a difficult birth and possibly the medication he was given as a newborn.

Very soon after Michael's hearing loss was diagnosed, his parents enrolled him in Emerson College's Thayer Lindsley Nursery School in Boston, for children with communicative disorders. The school specialized in helping deaf and hard of hearing pre-schoolers. There he began sessions with a speech therapist, sessions that have continued to this day.

Michael was enrolled in another school with special programs for hearing impaired children when he was ready for elementary school. For six years, kindergarten through fifth grade, he attended the Concord Area Special Education Collaborative in Concord, Mass.

Mrs. Clement said Michael's older siblings were a great help in supplementing the collaborative school program. Michael remembers his sister, Pam, often helping him with the speech and other development exercises he learned at the school.

"Michael had a lot of attention and help. When one of us got a little weary with the lessons and he wanted to go on, another family member would be ready to jump in and begin where the other left off," said Mrs. Clement.

"Michael never got tired of doing those exercises. He always had a great thirst to learn."

Memorial library patron fails to pay fine, loses privileges

By Perry Catlin

Jean Palmer, of 8 Karlton Circle, went to Memorial Hall Library Sunday, April 29, and found that her borrowing privileges had been withdrawn. She says the library is being unfair about a lost tape she couldn't have lost, and the library says all she has to do is pay her $5 fine and her privileges will be returned.

Ms. Palmer, formerly assistant director of the Stoneham Library (1973-'80) and for a while assistant director of the Phillips Academy library before staying home to raise two children, borrowed an audiobook from the Andover facility. Ms. Palmer reviews audiobooks for young adults and writes book and audio reviews for a library-trade magazine.

She says she listened to the first tape of the set she borrowed, found she didn't want to review it and returned it without removing or looking at what would have been the second tape from the package.

Soon thereafter, she received a message on her phone answering machine that a tape was missing and that if she didn't return it she would have to pay for it.

"There was no mention that my borrowing privileges would be suspended if I failed to pay," she said in a letter dated April 30 written to Nancy Jacobson, director of Memorial Hall Library.

Ms. Palmer then looked for the tape, realized that she never opened the second tape, and decided she received the set from the library with the tape already missing from the package.

"Someone who borrowed the tape before I did no doubt has the missing tape," she wrote Ms. Jacobson.

"I'm willing to pay it but I resent it because I didn't lose it," Ms. Palmer told the Townsman. "The policy assumes you are responsible for the previous borrower."

When she lost privileges at Andover's library, Ms. Palmer also lost privileges at the North Andover Public Library, and all other surrounding libraries that participate in the computer network.

So she called the library to explain and was told that the library does not keep the name of any previous borrower, only the most current one.

But Ms. Jacobson told the Townsman that librarians always check materials when they're returned to make sure they're complete. Ms. Palmer said the library didn't get back to her after she explained that someone else must have the tape.

Ms. Jacobson said the librarians who called didn't leave a message because they wanted to explain the library's policy to Ms. Palmer, not to a tape. Ms. Jacobson told the Townsman last Friday she had just written to Ms. Palmer since the library was unable to get her by phone.

Ms. Palmer has another complaint. Her 10-year-old daughter isn't allowed access to the young adult collection unless her mother is with her.

"Even with a note from me she couldn't do it by herself," said Ms. Palmer.

"We have to have rules and regulations," said Ms. Jacobson, who explained that children aren't allowed on the main floor without an adult.

She said she'd had a letter from another person, a sixth-grader, who wishes to have access to the main floor of the library. Ms. Jacobson wrote back and explained that the library has to serve everybody and that as soon as school ends in June, a sixth-grader becomes a seventh-grader and is then allowed free use of the library.

Ms. Jacobson told the Townsman that a child younger than seventh-grade age can't be on the main floor of the library without an adult or without a note from the downstairs children's librarian.

"We're only doing this out of necessity," said Ms. Jacobson. "We have monitors on duty, patrolling the halls. We have to, to prevent vandalism. We hire people part time" to make sure library patrons "aren't chewing gum" or "drinking Coke and spilling it."

Ms. Jacobson said the library receives one or two complaints a year about children not having access to all of the library. Asked if there is "a lot of vandalism" at the library, she said, "Oh yes. It goes in streaks."

A check with the Boston Public Library showed that facility allows children to wander freely about the library, even though it has both a children's room and a room for young adults.

"It's ironic," said Mary Margaret Pitts, one of four children's librarians at the Boston Public Library. "We prefer kids stay here (in the children's area) for their own safety. But we don't restrict them."

McQuade: Town roads need work

Public works Director Bob McQuade told selectmen Monday that the town needs $7 million to bring town roads up to decent condition.

Mr. McQuade attended the board's meeting Monday to answer questions on his budget for fiscal 1991. After the budget discussion, Ms. Ralston asked the director what concerns the board should be aware of relating to future needs.

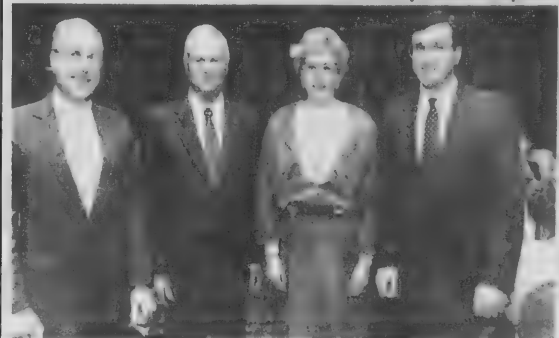

"I feel strongly that we need a 10-year program with $1 million a year," he said. "We need a catch-up program and every year we put that off compounds the problem."

This year, with the deterioration of the roads from a bad winter, the $7 million needed now is approaching $10 million, according to Mr. McQuade.

At Founders Day last Wednesday evening, employees who worked for the town of Andover for several years received thanks and pins. Three school department employees who received 30-year pins were, from left, Christine Maynard, Superintendent Dr. Kenneth Seifert and Annetta Freedman.

Board again ducks stance on override

By Don Staruk

The Board of Selectmen again this week failed to take a position on whether to support a Proposition 2½ override at the June 11 Town Meeting.

After a brief discussion Monday night on the $1.5 million override article, board members James Barenboim and William Downs voted to recommend voters disapprove it, while Chairwoman Gail Ralston and members Charles Wesson and Gerald Silverman voted to take no position on the proposal.

The override calls for increasing taxes to pay an additional $700,000 for municipal maintenance, $480,000 for schools and $320,000 for town departments.

Mr. Barenboim told the board he was against the article because inadequate study had been done on the town side. He also said he could not approve a general override that would inflate the town's taxbase forever.

Mr. Barenboim also pointed to the ruling by the state Supreme Judicial Court Monday that may free up as much as $1 million in state aid.

The SJC ruled that Gov. Michael Dukakis was wrong in withholding $210 million in state aid from cities and towns last year. That ruling could plug $1 million back into Andover's budget.

Mr. Downs told the board he was against spending money on buildings, which is what cling program and saved the town a net $32,000.

The community has a population of 29,500, similar to the roughly 29,000 people in Andover.

Lexington produces 17,000 tons of solid waste per year, compared to Andover's 12,340 tons in 1989. Like Andover, Lexington belongs to the Northeast Solid Waste Committee and takes its trash to the RESCO incinerator in North Andover.

In March of 1988, Lexington passed a mandatory recycling bylaw that requires separating designated recyclable materials from solid refuse.

"I think Lexington was the first town to make it mandatory in the state," said Kathy Demario, of the Lexington Department of Public Works.

By October of 1988 the town had worked out a three-year contract with New England CRInc., of Billerica, and its recycling program was underway.

The initial contract was for collection, transportation and marketing of newsprint, magazines and glass. That was later expanded to include catalogues, telephone books and aluminum and tin cans. As of July 1 plastics will also be included.

"We're doing close to 14 tons a day from the curbside program alone," said Dick Spiers, director of public works for Lexington.

Programs have also been started for recycling office paper and composting leaves and Christmas trees.

The recycling contract this year cost $73,901 per year.

Lexington paid $57 per ton to incinerate its 17,000 tons of trash in 1989 ($969,000), $60 in fiscal 1990 ($1,020,000), and anticipates paying $63 per ton in 1991 ($1,071,000).

The 2,600 tons recycled in the last nine months of fiscal 1989 included 2,100 tons from the curbside program and 4,500 tons from the composting program.

Removing that amount of material from the waste stream represented a cost avoidance of approximately $148,000 in dumping fees. The first year cost of $113,000 included the contract, the purchase and distribution of recycling bins and a small marketing program, according to Mr. Spiers. The office paper recycling program was started at a cost of $3,000 and the town saw a net savings of $32,000.

How it works

Each resident is given a plastic basket, much like a laundry basket, in which they place their recyclables. The first basket is paid for by the town. If they are lost or stolen, the resident must replace them for $6 each. If they don't want to pay, their trash doesn't get picked up, according to Mr. Spiers.

Glass, tin and aluminum goes on the bottom of the basket. Newspaper and magazines need to be bagged first and third Saturday of each month, when those items are recycled.

They also say it would be too difficult to take their paper to the curbside for recycling. The town of Lexington found that getting school children involved in helping the elderly take their recyclables to curbside works well. (See separate story.) But Andover is not there, yet.

"I put everything in a great big dumpster," said Olive McKeon, who lives in apartments at 100 Main St. "I think it would be wonderful if they would recycle paper because there must be so much of it."

Mrs. McKeon said she takes cans and plastic bottles back to the supermarket.

"I haven't got a car now so I don't take bottles to the recycling center."

But she said if she could take glass and plastic to curbside for pick-up recycling, she'd participate.

"Oh yes, indeed, I'd do it," said Mrs. McKeon. "I think it's a shame they don't do it."

Rose Lieb, who lives in Andover Commons on Railroad Street, said she saves "everything" and recycles nothing.

"We have compactors," she said. "I wrap everything up in paper bags and it goes in the compactor."

But one woman who didn't want her name used in this article said a person who lives at Andover Commons can recycle. There are four barrels there, she said, for paper, cans, glass and rubbish.

"I do it," she said. "I separate it because I read all about recycling in the newspaper and it's taught me all about it. I'm all for recycling but the elderly, a lot of people don't realize. They forget."

Lillian Beizer, also of Andover Commons, said, "I'm not recycling."

Mrs. Beizer said she didn't know what the barrels were for at Andover Commons. "We have a dumpster," she said. "Everything goes down it."

Margaret Cairnie, of Andover Commons, said she'd recycle if she could. But she said she doesn't know where she'd store recyclables waiting to be taken away.

enough. But overall it is working well, according to Mr. Spiers.

"I would say people are receiving it well," Mr. Spiers said.

Mr. Spiers said his family used to put out three bags of trash a week. Now they put out one.

"We have more recyclables than trash. Once you get into it, it's easy to do," he said.

"To date residents are recycling 14.5 tons per day of newsprint, magazines, glass containers and aluminum and tin cans with a participation rate in excess of 80 percent. This represents an avoided cost savings of $60 per ton, or $870 per day, for a gross yearly savings of approximately $200,000. The combined programs that represent the Lex-Recycle project have the potential to realize net savings in the vicinity of $180,000 for fiscal year 1990 and beyond," he reported in a recent summary statement of the program.

The town is projecting 22.3 percent of the town's curbside collection will be recycled this year, fiscal 1990.

The program only needs to reduce the solid waste stream by 7.2 percent, (1,232 tons x $60 $73,920), to be self sufficient in 1990, and 6.9 percent, (1,173 tons x $63 $73,899), in 1991.

The market

Lexington's newsprint is sold for $15 a ton. Office paper brings $.05 per ton and aluminum takes in $.64 per ton.

Flint (white) glass gets about $53.50 a ton; amber (brown) glass is sold for $44.50 per ton and green glass sells for $26.50 per ton.

Tin recycling only started in Lexington last August because of the difficulty in removing labels, which clog up the machinery. They now recycle tin but labels must be removed.

CRInc. is seeking a grant to subsidize the cost of recycling plastics to make it more cost effective and Lexington will begin recycling plastics July 1.

Cardboard is not included in recycling costs in Lexington.

Wellesley's drop-off program

The city of Wellesley has taken a different approach to recycling, but one that works there. Residents take their recyclables, and their trash, to a transfer station at the town landfill just as they have been doing for 19 years.

Wellesley has a population of 27,000. In 1989 the town generated 13,618 tons of trash, 593 tons of compost and 3,079 tons of recycled material for a total of 17,290 tons of solid waste.

There is no curbside trash program at all in Wellesley. The town operates a transfer station at the town landfill.

"We have volunteer source separation drop off," said Maurice Berdan, director of public works for the town.

Residents separate their recyclables in designated bins at the transfer station. The recyclables are marketed. The trash is placed in roll-off containers before it is trucked to a landfill in Plainville.

About 90 percent of residents use the transfer station. The remaining 10 percent pay for private haulers to pick up and dispose of their trash.

Although recycling is voluntary in Wellesley, Mr. Berdan said 83 percent of households recycle in some manner.

In fiscal 1989, 3,079 tons of material were recycled and 1,160 tons of compost were marketed for a total of 4,239 tons recycled, or 24.5 percent of the town's solid waste.

The gross benefit, including avoided transfer costs, was $291,643. Recycling costs amounted to $49,085 for a net benefit of $242,558, according to figures provided by Mr. Berdan's office.

The program has cooperation from the people because it has been developed over the years, according

At the time Michael attended the CASE Collaborative school it only offered programs for students up to grade five. When he was ready to enter sixth grade he was enrolled at Sanborn School in Andover.

"There really wasn't a dilemma," said Mrs. Clement. "All along we knew and Michael knew that he would be mainstreamed into the public schools."

Mrs. Clement said her son had always felt more comfortable in the hearing world. He attended summer camps for deaf and hearing impaired children, but always expressed a desire to interact more and more with the hearing community, she said.

"It was hard at first," Michael said of his first few days in sixth grade at Sanborn School.

He remembers some children teasing and taunting him because he was different. Michael has a very gentle way about him and an optimistic outlook. He concluded on that afternoon last week, six years after he was at Sanborn School, that those children weren't intentionally mean to him.

"I think they may have felt uncomfortable around me," he said. Elementary-school life at Sanborn quickly became better and Michael said he enjoyed sixth grade. Following elementary school he attended the former East Junior High School and then went on to Andover High.

He has maintained high honors throughout high school and he is a member of the National Honor Society. Michael is also a senator to AHS' student government and is a member of the school's math team. He participated in the school's community service program by volunteering to be a Big Brother to a deaf boy in the area.

In addition to all of those activities, Michael has a part-time job at Memorial Hall Library, where he performs a wide variety of chores. He also finds time to collect baseball cards and dabble in the stock market with some of money he has earned from his part-time job.

He said he hasn't made big money yet and his trading is "just for fun."

Because of Michael's outstanding academic and citizenship endeavors, he has received many scholarships this spring that will help with college. He has enrolled at Princeton University in New Jersey and plans to study electrical engineering in the fall.

He received a $2,000 National Merit Scholarship, as well as a $2,500 scholarship from the Boston Guild for the Hard of Hearing, a $1,000 scholarship from the Lawrence Quota Club, and he received an academic excellence award from the Merrimack Valley School Committee and Superintendent Association.

Mrs. Clement said she and her husband, Francis, always taught their children they could do anything if they tried.

His only limitation, due to being deaf, is difficulty learning a foreign language. He said hearing himself pronounce the unfamiliar words is difficult. It may have been difficult, but that never deterred him. He took both Spanish and Latin classes in school and did well.

"We always told Michael the only thing he couldn't do that a hearing person could do was hear," said Mrs. Clement.

His parents' unwavering support has been a strong influence in his life, he said.

"This may sound corny," Michael said, "but I'd have to say my role models are my mom and dad."

"They are good people with a lot of integrity. They didn't give up on me when things got hard."

Alzheimer's group plans Sunday walk

The Greater Lowell Alzheimer's Association plans a third annual Walkathon for Sunday, May 20, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., beginning and ending at the Sampas Pavilion, Pawtucket Boulevard, Lowell.

The walkathon raises funds to support GLAA's programs of education and support for people with Alzheimer's disease, their families and the community.

The walkathon will follow three routes: 2 miles, 4.5 miles and 8 miles. A family picnic will follow the walk at the Sampas Pavilion, featuring food, music and games.

Walkers are asked to collect a flat fee from sponsors.

To participate or for more information, call Mary Jo Austin at 858-0075 or Clare Hamilton at the Dracut Senior Center, 957-2028.

Recycle this way?

to Mr. Berdan.

"We've been at it for a long time, growing steadily, and sold it through incentives and education," Mr. Berdan said. "They feel good about it."

Mr. Berdan would like to see that go to 50 percent, but he doesn't see going to a curbside program.

"The people in Wellesley have not wanted curbside collection," Mr. Berdan said.

"As far as the city is concerned, the city avoids the collection costs," he said.

Recycling efforts in Wellesley in the future will instead focus on reducing the amount of solid waste generated. One way to do this is by re-using materials without re-manufacture, through industries such as Goodwill and Morgan Memorial. The town will also focus on finding markets for the recycled materials, according to the DPW director.

"If you don't have a market, you don't have recycling," Mr. Berdan said. "If you can't market it, all you have is segregated trash."

A market doesn't mean a profit has to be made at the point of sale, according to Mr. Berdan.

"Whether you increase your revenue or decrease your cost, you still have more dollars on the bottom line," Mr. Berdan said.

Access for everyone

A library is a free place from which people can borrow books. Children who are brought up expecting to spend time in libraries usually become readers, adults who value their time learning from printed material.

Libraries should be places where children are welcome, where they're encouraged to read, to listen, to learn to be responsible adults who value their books and take care of them.

At Memorial Hall Library there is a policy that forbids sixth-graders and those younger from being on the main floor without a parent, or a note from the downstairs Children's Room librarian.

Nancy Jacobson, director of the library, says the policy is necessary. She says she already has hired part-time monitors who "patrol" the halls to make sure young patrons are not chewing gum or drinking sodas in the halls.

While we are sympathetic, and acknowledge that gum chewing or even book stealing are a threat to invaluable library collections, our overriding drive is to make children feel welcome at libraries.

In addition, we believe it is best to rely on a policy with children that assumes they will act like responsible people.

If a child were wandering about the library, including on the main floor, making noise and sticking her gum on shelf bottoms, then fine, withdraw her library privileges. That would be appropriate and also a good use of monitors.

But we are worried about children not being able to read Sports Illustrated or the Andover Townsman because they are located on the adult floor of the library. We believe that children should be able to see adults sitting in chairs enjoying books and wandering about the stacks like children in a candy store. It is by their example that children will learn to love reading.

A library is a free place where people should feel comfortable and at home. We would like to see all children allowed to be on the main floor at Memorial Hall Library.

Apologies to Bob Lague, of 'Fiddler' fame

By Perry Catlin

It's hard to believe I wrote an entire column on Andover High School's production of "Fiddler on the Roof" in last week's paper and never once mentioned Bob Lague, the play's director. Obviously, he was the driving force behind the successful effort, and I apologize for the omission.

Actually, we've heard that a few years ago not many people attended the high school's plays. But the word is out that Bob gets results from these high school actors and actresses so that people want to be there. I can see why.

We had a call from Andover resident Leo Rute recently. He complained about the intersection at Elm Square, where High Street comes into Elm Street. If you're coming toward the square from North Andover on Elm Street and High is on your right, there's a sign there saying you have to stop before High, so you won't block the intersection. Mr. Rute phoned because he says the rear of his car was almost hit when he stopped there and a car behind him didn't anticipate Mr. Rute would be following the law.

We phoned the police and apparently there aren't an extraordinary number of fender benders there. Anyone else had a problem with that part of the Elm Square intersection?

If you see Tom Mullings, the Townsman's summer intern, please stop him and introduce yourself. A senior at Fitchburg State College, Tom isn't exactly a green intern. He's had some good experience so we're looking forward to his help.

Speaking of introducing yourself, my door is open and I'm anxious to meet Andover residents, although I have met many of you. If you have a bone to pick with the paper, or if you have a suggestion, please call or come to see me. Thursdays and Fridays are best days to drop in, but you might like to phone to make sure I'm here.

Also, we've scheduled another public forum at the Townsman, but this one will have a different format. Instead of inviting a small group to come on a weeknight to discuss the paper, we're opening our offices on North Main Street on Saturday, June 2, from 9 a.m. to noon. At that time you might just like to see our offices, or you can talk with us about the paper. Please mark it on your calendar.

If you send us a press release and the local connection is not clear, chances are we won't use it. We think of ourselves as Andover's hometown paper, and so we try to make sure most press releases are about a local person or a local event. (Yes, we know, some are not, especially entertainment items, but most stories are local.)

True, there are many events outside of Andover in which local residents are involved, but we have limited resources and limited space, so sometimes we have to set priorities.

So if you want something in the Townsman, please remember to talk as how it relates to Andover.

School board doing good job

Editor, Townsman:

I have spent a good deal of time in the last several weeks watching the Andover School Committee as they wrestle with the projected budget for the upcoming year. I'd like to share a bit of what I've observed:

1. At 17 cents an hour (their effective individual pay rate) they are the best investment of tax money I've ever seen.

2. The majority of the members are truly dedicated to preserving and promoting a quality educational system in Andover.

3. They have worked long hours working through the budget and understand the impacts of proposed cuts on school programs.

4. Dick Hubbell and perhaps others have visited neighboring towns and studied their situations relative to limited educational budgets.

5. Each of them have given up three or four nights a week to attend PTO and other meetings to share their ideas with concerned citizens. They have also made themselves available to people like me who call for information and with suggestions.

6. As a group they seem more proactive and responsible for the needs of Andover than either the Board of Selectmen or the Finance Committee.

7. The proposed $1.5 million override is a compromise position, which still involves very deep cuts in existing school programs but which at least preserves the framework of a quality Andover school system.

My message in all this is simply that the School Committee has spent long and painful hours putting together the Prop. 2½ override article. Anyone interested in working towards preserving Andover's reputation as a great place to live should study it carefully and share it with a friend.

Earth Day is still alive

Editor, Townsman:

In the weeks since Earth Day we have seen gratifying evidence that the message and spirit of Earth Day are taking hold in Andover. We notice a growing awareness in town of the environmental effects of our actions and our choices of products and services.

We see concern and we see efforts. Some are changing old habits such as unnecessary use of Styrofoam, some are adopting new habits such as recycling, and others, including the Townsman, are raising public awareness and acting as catalysts for positive change.

We applaud all of those who are keeping Earth Day every day. Most of our actions on behalf of Mother Earth will not make news or receive public acclaim, but they are no less significant and no less necessary to saving this planet for future generations.

We also invite questions, suggestions and ideas from those who'd like to contribute to sustaining the spirit of environmental awareness in our community. Positive change can result from the modest efforts of a few.

If you'd like to get recycling going in your company or support curbside recycling in Andover or help work with local supermarkets to promote environmentally sound shopping, or if you have your own ideas or thoughts about a change you'd like to see, please get in touch with us.

You forgot Bob Lague

Editor, Townsman:

Thank you for your editorial last week on the Andover High School production of "Fiddler on the Roof." You forgot, however, to mention the most important person, Mr. Bob Lague, director/conductor and teacher at AHS.

His vision, commitment and countless hours of effort made this event much more than we ever expected from a high school production. He asked the cast for their best and then some and he got it. It is a rare individual who can inspire students to achieve such greatness.

Thanks, Mr. Lague! Also Mr. Halstead, Ms. McTeague, Ms. Welty and all of the others behind the scenes who made this musical so memorable. You are the best.

The cast noticed, too

Editor, Townsman:

Although we (the cast of "Fiddler on the Roof") appreciated the good review we got by Perry Catlin last week, we were extremely dismayed to find that there was not one mention of our hard-working director, Robert Lague.

Not only did Mr. Lague spend an unbelievable amount of time putting this production together, he has been a constant source of support for us.

Without Mr. Lague, "Fiddler on the Roof" could not have happened.

Mr. Lague is not one to call attention to his actions, but we feel that he deserves credit where it is due.

Show emotion: fly flags

Editor, Townsman:

The Andover Patriotic Holiday Committee and the Street of Memorial Flags Committee would like all Andover residents to make this Memorial Day a day of remembering those brave men and women who shed their blood and gave their lives so the rest of us can live in a free world.

One way of showing your outward emotions is to join our memorial flags program by flying a flag in front of your home. Join with us in not letting these veterans be forgotten.

Patriotic Holiday Committee

We like to receive your letters

If you have an opinion to voice, write a letter to the editor.

The deadline for letters is Monday at 5 p.m.

Occasionally the Townsman will print a letter that's submitted after the deadline because they are about something that occurred after the Monday deadline.

Letters can be mailed to the Townsman at 89 North Main St., Andover 01810, or they can be dropped by.

Letters must be signed. Please include a phone number, which does not need to be published, but which the paper may need for clarification purposes.

Letters should be short. One typed page should suffice. Long letters may need to be cut, so if you write long, try to put the less important information toward the bottom of the letter.

Seeking rules for former employees Board ducks override the subdivision is in a fragile and environmentally sensitive area, there might be a better way to lay out the septic system and the houses," Mr. Penney said.

The slope of the land and a high water table are what the board consider environmentally sensitive, according to the health director.

The former town manager indicated that he would submit a revised plan by Friday of this week, according to Mr. Penney.

Mr. Mahony last week asked the Planning Board to waive three planning requirements for the subdivision.

"The crux of the issue is the waiver of the street construction standards," said Stephen Colyer, planning director.

Normal planning procedures would call for a paved road to be built into the two one-acre lots to provide the required frontage. Mr. Mahony asked to construct a gravel road instead. He also asked the board to waive the requirement for him to install utilities under the roadway.

A third waiver request dealt with the the required grading around the houses.

The quid pro quo would be that Mr. Mahony would grant the town a 20-foot easement, which reduces to about 10 feet, along the edge of his property to access the Ward Reservation from Salem Street.

Three such waivers have been accepted by the town in the past, but all had specific benefits to the town.

In this case, the town already has an access road to the Ward Reservation off Salem Street just up the road from Mr.

Mahony's property.

Mr. Mahony holds that the easement would link the Taft Reservation with the Ward Reservation.

Planning Board member William Dalton said board members are sensitive to the fact that Mr. Mahony appointed each of them, and that they are doing their best to treat the applicant with neither favoritism nor prejudice.

"It's a little bit unusual. We are trying our best to treat this like it's Joe Bloe in front of us," Mr. Dalton said. "We can't walk away from it. We're stuck."

Speaking only for himself, Mr. Dalton said he doesn't see the plan as very controversial.

"It's a very small sort of subdivision that has very little impact," Mr. Dalton said.

No leads in Vena Coco robbery

Police this week have no new leads or any suspects in a robbery that occurred at Vena Coco Collection store on Main Street last week, according to police Lt. Frank Houlihan.

Vena Coco Collection, a women's clothing store at 93 Main St. in Olde Andover Village, was robbed at about 8 p.m. Thursday, May 10, by a lone bandit who demanded money from two female employees before fleeing on foot.

"He told the employees, 'This is a robbery, get down on the floor,'" according to police Lt. John Houlihan.

The women complied and the robber took cash and checks from the register along with a pocketbook belonging to one of the employees, according to Lt. Houlihan.

much of the override money is slated for, when jobs are being cut.

The article has been included on the warrant and will go to town meeting whether the Board of Selectmen ultimately support it or not. The proposal needs town meeting approval to get on the ballot for a special town-wide election.

The School Committee will work with the Board of Selectmen and the Finance Committee between now and town meeting in an effort to produce an article all three groups can support.

Subcommittee questioned

John Doyle, of 40 Reservation Road, pressed the board again Monday night to make a decision on whether the Central Business District Subcommittee is a legal body.

The CBD subcommittee was put together by the Planning Board to look at changes the town could make to improve the business climate and retain basic services downtown.

Mr. Doyle contends that the group is not legal because its members are not all members of the Planning Board and were not appointed by the town manager.

The subject had been brought up by Mr. Doyle at two previous selectmen's meetings and the board had asked Town Counsel Al Daniels for an opinion.

Mr. Daniels, in a letter received by the board Monday, said the subcommittee was legitimate in his opinion.

Historical group begins Friends Campaign

One week after the election of the new board of directors, the Andover Historical Society kicked off its annual Friends Campaign on May 4.

The Friends Campaign was established in 1987 when the board, then under the direction of Karen Herman, recognized the need for additional funds to ensure the continued preservation of the society's extensive collections—including household furnishings, textiles, agricultural colors identified by historic paint analysis and the installation of a new sidewalk designed to simulate a typical, 19th-century gravel path. Proceeds from this year's Friends Campaign will help complete this much-needed restoration work without depleting the funds required to carry out the daily tasks of collecting, preserving and interpreting Andover's history.

Outgoing President Norma Gammon worked tirelessly coordinating the fund-raising efforts and the new board of directors, under the leadership of Gratia Mahony, formerly development committee chairwoman, is similarly committed to seeking new and increased support from within the community which the society serves.

Other officers elected at the society's 79th meeting on Thursday, April 26, are Priscilla Alden, first vice president; James Batcheler, second vice president; Karen Herman, treasurer; Barbara Swift, assistant treasurer;

Robin Sung, corresponding secretary; and Margaret Roberts, recording secretary. Margaret Jurgen, Nancy Larsen, Warren Lewis, Martha Schmidt and Ned Williams were elected new directors for three-year terms. Ongoing directors are Hanne Castle, Laura Edge (appointed mid-year to replace V. David Rodger), Frederick Fitzgerald, Wesley Grace, Cornelia LeMaitre, Susan O'Leary and Lolli Sumburg, Mrs.

Gammon will remain on the board ex officio.

President Mahony gave certificates of appreciation to retiring board members Andrew Caffrey Jr., Randall Hanson, Joel Claydon and V. David Rodger and to retiring custodian Charles Lundergan.

Karen Herman, on behalf of the entire board, gave special thanks to outgoing-president Mrs. Gammon for her dedication and hard work and presented equipment, wood-working tools, books, photographs, manuscripts and maps—and presentation of high quality, educational programs for all ages. While the society is fortunate to have an endowment, due to the generosity of Andover families over the years, the income is not sufficient to cover the costs of daily operations.

This year the society is making a major investment in its largest and most valuable collection item, the early 19th-century Amos Blanchard House and Barn. Among the projects already begun or planned for the coming months are the replacement of the barn's asphalt shingle roof with an historically accurate wood shingle roof, the repainting of the entire facility using

Mr. Combs, Catherine Consiglio, Peter Warsaw, Christopher Walter, Sheryl Galvin and William Thomas, coaches for this chamber music recital, invite the public to attend. There is no charge for admission.

PA senior Marie Eguro will play the piano Saturday, May 19, at 7 p.m. in the Timken Recital Room.

Her recital program will include "Prelude and Fugue in b-flat Major" from the "Well-tempered Clavier" by J.S. Ms. Eguro studies with Mr. Warsaw, a member of the music faculty. She played Beethoven's "Triple Concerto, Op. 56" in 1988 with the Andover Chamber Players under the direction of Mr. Thomas. During this academic year she has played "Concerto in E-flat Major, Op. 73, No. 5" with the Academy Chamber Orchestra.

Ms. Eguro is the 1989 Miss Teen America, 1988 Miss Teen Illinois, an honorary chairwoman for the Illinois March of Dimes and a national youth spokeswoman for the "Just Say No to Drugs" Foundation.

Andover High sophomore Tim Plankey is doing something out of the ordinary for his Eagle Scout badge; he's organizing a variety show to benefit a children's health center.

Scouting for a spotlight

By Susan O'Neill

Friday night, June 1, the stage at Doherty Middle School's Memorial Auditorium will be filled with "stars" who will donate their talents to the non-profit Foundation for Faces of Children. While the performers may not be internationally famous and their cause might lack the name impact of "Jerry's Kids," the benefit variety show will represent a crowning achievement for its director/producer, Tim Plankey: it will fulfill his community service requirement for the rank of Eagle Scout.

Tim, a sophomore at Andover High School, has been in scouting since he joined a Cub Scout troop near Pittsburgh in 1981. He and his family — parents Frank and Bonnie and older brother Mike — moved to Andover eight years ago. He is a member of Troop 77, West Parish Church.

To become an Eagle, the highest rank in Scouting, a Boy Scout must complete all other ranks, earn 21 merit badges and organize, direct and supervise a project that benefits the community.

For most Eagle candidates, a community project means physical labor. Some have built footpaths or bridges; Tim's brother, who attained Eagle Scout last year, organized a construction project to build cabinets for a local preschool. For Tim, however, the thought of slogging through the underbrush or swinging a hammer held little appeal.

"I wanted to do something that I enjoyed," he explains.

Most fans of local theater have seen Tim doing what he enjoys — performing. He has acted in Merrimack Junior Theatre and Andover High School and Andover Theatre Company productions; he sings with the high school chorus and is a veteran of Josie Walker's Jelly Beans and Confetti Kids troupes. It was through Mrs. Walker that Tim learned of the Foundation for Faces of Children.

Ms. Lee is involved at Andover Day Care Center in Andover, a Phillips community service project. She is also a dormitory proctor and a member of the Asian Society, Phillips Academy Chorus, Fidelio Society and Phillips Academy Cantata Choir, of which she is also co-president.

She has traveled with Cantata Choir to Puerto Rico, Italy, New York and Pennsylvania performing major works of Handel and Bach. She was accepted under early admission to Wellesley College for the fall.

Mr. Bae, who is also finishing his third year at Phillips, has studied piano with a teacher from New England Conservatory and Mr. Warsaw. He has taken a master-class in piano with Joseph Schwartz of Oberlin Conservatory.

He played Mendelssohn's "Piano Concerto No. 1" with the Academy Chamber Orchestra this spring. Mr. Bae has also taken part in the academy-sponsored Washington intern program where he worked in the office of Andrew Ireland, a Florida congressman, for the spring term of his upper year.

He takes part in the Friday forum committee, whose purpose once a term is to plan and coordinate a lecturer and dinner. He also took part in the tours of Cantata Choir and Chamber Orchestra to Italy and Puerto Rico.

Mr. Bae is a member of the Cum Laude Society, a National Merit finalist and the winner of a WITCO Corp. scholarship for science study. He has been on the PA honor roll for eight consecutive terms.

Under the early-action program, he received acceptance to Harvard for the fall where he intends to follow his interests in history and science.

The public is invited to these recitals. There is no charge for admission.

The foundation supports the Craniofacial Centre at Children's Hospital in Boston. It was founded three years ago by a group of parents, including Robert and Priscilla Bradway of Andover, whose children had been treated at the center.

The Bradways' 11-year-old son, Ben, is a member of Confetti Kids; he was born with a cleft lip and palate and hemifacial microsomia, a condition in which half of his face was disproportionately small.

"Ben's had 22 surgeries so far," his father says. "He'll probably have another 10 or 12 before it's over with."

The foundation, of which Mr. Bradway serves as board chairman, raises money to support the center's research and sponsors fellowships for surgeons who will specialize in the field. It offers help, when possible, to families for whom extensive and repeated hospital stays might spell financial hardship.

If finding a cause worthy of his project was easy, the project itself is, in the words of Tim's former scoutmaster, Dick Shupe, "very ambitious. It's different, unique and something that he can handle."

Not only does Tim have to schedule the auditorium, line up acts and publicity and orchestrate rehearsals; he also has had to research the insurance aspects of the project and form a team of fellow Scouts to promote tickets, work as ushers and otherwise help with the production. All of this, says Mr. Shupe, must be documented to the satisfaction of a special panel of troop leaders.

Tim's slate of entertainers represents a variety of ages and talents. His master of ceremonies will be Dennis Lorne, whose credits with the Andover Theatre Company include directing, acting (he has played such diverse roles as a hardened criminal in "The Desperate Hours" and the Wicked Witch in "The Wizard of Oz") and choreography (most recently "The Music Man").

Musical groups will include the very young (Confetti Kids), the young (Andover High School Madrigals and Methuen High School Arrangers) and the young at heart (Merrimack Valley's resident women's and men's barbershop chorales, the Sweet Adelines and the Townsmen).

Comedian Mark Perrault, saxophonist Ken Gable, Indian dance specialist Dave Deschenes and Tom Wang and his jazz band will also perform. Vocalists include Andover High's Marcus DeLoach, Beth Robinson and Althea Rivera; singer Christy Welty; and folksinger Sue O'Neill. Pianists Jeff Grace, Alaina Schroeder and Amanda Witman will provide accompaniment.

The benefit will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tickets may be obtained for a $5 donation at the door or in advance from Troop 77 members, at Andover Books and Prints on Park Street and through Selma Fleeter at Old Town Hall.

Volleyball qualifies for states

By Rick Harrison

Sue Gertsberg, a junior at Colby College in Waterville, Maine, is a member of the women's track team this spring. Sue, a chemistry and biology major, is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Peter Gertsberger of Andover.

The Andover High boys' volleyball team, currently in the midst of a tough week against two exceptionally strong teams, remained undefeated last week and qualified for the State Tournament with consecutive 2-0 victories over Algonquin Regional of Northboro, Somerville High and Newton South.

The three-match sweep lifted co-coach George Sullivan and Art Iworsley's second-year powerhouse to 9-0 overall, including 6-0 in the North Division of the Eastern Mass. League.

It's the first tourney berth after a respectable 10-10 maiden season.

So dominant have the Golden Warriors been that in nine matches they have lost just one game (18-1 overall), failing to sweep only Lowell. The Red Raiders were able to grab the opening game in a post-spring vacation match, but AHS regrouped and won the next two.

Earlier this week Andover was expected to be severely tested by defending state champ New Bedford High and Lowell, both of whom entered with impressive 9-3 records. New Bedford features a powerful 6'6" frontline spiker.

Tomorrow afternoon the Warriors are at Billerica High (4 p.m.).

"We're doing better this year because the kids are working a little harder," explained Sullivan. "Boys' volleyball is now an established sport at the school, and the kids are more into it."

"The communication on the court is better and the players understand more about the game."

The sweep of Algonquin came by 15-11 and 15-4 scores, the Warriors heating up after a slow start against a weak opponent (1-8 record).

Playing well for the locals were Jeff Foley, Chris Merrill and John Bishop.

"Foley and Merrill are the top setters," said Sullivan. "Merrill also offers excellent leadership and defense, while Bishop works hard at the sport and is a strong hitter."

Andover cruised to a 15-3, 15-7 decision over Somerville (2-7 record), a match that marked the return of Kevin Murphy from the injury list. Murphy had missed the previous four matches with a sprained ankle.

Murphy picked up where he had left off, Jeff Foley had his jump serves clicking, and other standouts were Dave Ahouse and Matt Ouellette.

Tournament qualification was assured following a 2-0 sweep of Newton South, the 15-3, 15-12 victories coming against a team with just one previous loss.

"We were worried about them," admitted Sullivan. "They had done well against several of the big teams. We shocked them in the first (15-3) game. It took the wind out of their sails and pumped us up."

In the second game, however, AHS trailed by 2-3 points most of the way until pulling even 11-11. The Warriors broke away for good at 12-12 with the final three points.

Dave Ahouse scored seven points in the first game and four in the second, while Jeff Foley and John Thompson contributed four points apiece in the opener.

Chris Merrill was a defensive standout.

Andover JVs

The Golden Warriors' junior varsity won two of three matches last week to improve to 7-2 overall.

AHS rallied from a 13-3 first-game deficit to edge Algonquin, 2-1, then beat Somerville 2-0 and lost to Newton South 2-1.

Playing well in the three matches were Kevin Meisinger, Adam Cohen and Gary Wu.

High school softball team turns hot

By Rick Harrison

What a difference two weeks and a couple of confidence-building victories can make.

The Andover High girls' softball team, which started the season with six straight losses, is suddenly one of the hottest properties around.

The Lady Warriors, with two weeks, are 5-2 in starts and have ace in the Large Merrimack in's crew, 5-7 weak division now in position Eastern Mass. ent berth.

Methuen marked the third one-run loss for the Lady Warriors, who are that close to being 8-5.

Andover's top hitters entering this week's action were senior catcher Sarah Little (.353 average), junior third baseman Darlene Prochniak (.333), freshman infielder Lindsay Sweeney (.323) and Co-Capt. Nicole Ricci (.286).

Ricci, whose average jumped 100 points last week, leads the team in RBI with 16.

Opponents earlier this week were division rival Billerica and Lawrence High, while tomorrow AHS has another key intra-division clash against visiting Chelmsford (3:30 p.m., high school field).

Andover's rapid reversal started with a 10-6 victory over Chelmsford April 27.

Andover, 11-7

The Lady Warriors scored in every inning, building leads of 6-0 and 9-1, and withstood a late Haverhill charge.

Nicole Ricci led the attack with a single, double and four RBI, Lindsay Sweeney went 2-for-3 with a triple and two ribbies, and singles were contributed by junior Nancy Hoffman and Darlene Prochniak.

Sophomore pitcher Stacy Pranka went the distance with an eight-hitter, walking five and striking out three.

Methuen, 6-5

Shabby defensive play in the first two innings put AHS in a 6-1 hole against Methuen, but the Rangers had to hold on for dear life as Andover scored once in the third and added three runs in the seventh.

Michelle Mignault was the Rangers' star, tossing a seven-hitter and belting a three-run homer in the second inning.

Stacy Pranka, who relieved junior Keri Murphy in the second, was victimized by the home run and suffered the loss despite yielding only two hits in 4-1/3 innings.

Amanda McKew started the seventh-inning rally with a one-out walk. Pinch-runner Andrea Duffy stole second and scored on Darlene Prochniak's triple. Lindsay Sweeney tripled home the fourth run, and Nicole Ricci's two-out single made it 6-5.

Ricci then brashly stole second and third base, but Mignault finally got the third out on a grounder to second base.

AHS tennis wins again

By Rick Harrison

The only sure things in life are death, taxes and the Andover High varsity tennis teams.

Last week the beat went on for both the boys' and girls' squads, each of which rolled to 5-0 victories over Merrimack Valley Conference foes Haverhill and Methuen. The boys also whitewashed Central Catholic, 5-0, and the girls trimmed Tewksbury, 4-1.

Monday afternoon the boys took sole possession of first place in the MVC, and virtually assured themselves another title, with a 4-1 triumph over Billerica. Those two teams had been tied for first entering the match.

The girls also handled Billerica by a similar 4-1 score.

Those results left the girls undefeated at 12-0, alone atop the MVC standings and winners of an unprecedented 71 consecutive league matches.

The boys improved to 11-1, one match ahead of co-runnersup Billerica and Chelmsford, and now are 73-3 in their last 76 league matches.

The Golden Warrior boys also flexed their muscles in the annual Eastern Mass. North Sectional Individual Championships.

Softball team turns hot

Prochniak, Ricci and Sweeney laced two hits apiece, junior Nicole Thompson singled, and defensively Co-Capt. Michelle DeStefano was a standout with two excellent catches in rightfield.

Andover, 10-6

The Lady Warriors forged another 9-1 lead in the fifth, weathered a five-run Tewksbury sixth, and went on to win despite being out-hit 10-5.

Seven walks aided the cause for Andover, which ran wild on the basepaths with 16 steals.

Stacy Pranka (5-7 record) earned the victory with 3-1/3 innings of six-hit, five-strikeout relief. Keri Murphy worked the first 2-2/3 innings.

Nicole Ricci had her third two-hit game of the week, while Sarah Little spanked an RBI single, Murphy singled and Pranka singled.

Defensive standouts were third baseman Darlene Prochniak, shortstop Ricci, and catcher Little who kept Tewksbury honest by gunning down three would-be basestealers.

The Andover junior varsity is also flirt-

The boys had sophomore Paul Bernardin, junior Capt. Chris Chiang and two doubles teams advance to the Round-of-16 with victories last Saturday at Billerica and Burlington courts.

The Round-of-16 was washed out Sunday and rescheduled for this weekend at the same sites.

The girls were not as successful, having their one singles' competitor ousted. The doubles were washed out and rescheduled for this weekend.

Both AHS teams battled Lawrence yesterday and return to the courts today against Chelmsford (girls home, boys away). The Chelmsford boys handed Andover its lone loss, 3-2, although Chris Chiang was absent in the earlier match.

Andover Boys

In the 5-0 shutout of Haverhill, singles victories were posted by unbeaten Chris Chiang (9-0 league, 11-0 overall) over Brian Snow (6-4, 6-4), Eric Block over Sean Lupa (6-0, 6-4) and Rick Bertetti over Mike Ryan (6-1, 5-7, 6-2).

In doubles, Mike Cowhig and Rod Malitsky defeated Seth Romatelli and Lee Brown (6-2, 6-1) while Tim Sullivan and Doug Cullen handled Ryan Hastings and Tim Jordan (6-3, 7-5).

The same three singles players swept their Methuen opponents, Chiang blasting Joe Bretton (6-1, 6-0), Block dropping Ke-They're off in the YMCA Derby Dash five-mile run Saturday.

Cliff Howe of Andover won the age 40-49 group in the run, and he was fifth overall.

Dan Buckholz, 13, of Andover, was first in the age-19-and-under category in the run and 19th overall.

Patricia and Richard Fox of Andover participated in the three-mile walk. He's a member of the board of directors of the Y.

Scores run in Y's dash

Seven Andoverites were among the top finishers in the three-way race of the second annual Derby Dash held at the Andover/North Andover branch of the Merrimack Valley YMCA Saturday. The events include a five-mile run, three-mile walks and a one-mile fun run for youngsters 12 and under.

Sponsored by Andover Savings, Baybanks Middlesex, Community Savings, First Essex Savings, Lawrence Savings, Shawmut Arlington Trust Co., individuals and businesses, the proceeds will benefit the scholarship funds of the Merrimack Valley YMCA for youth programs, summer camps and membership.

With 62 participants in the five-mile run, the winners were Jim Hebert, 32, of Melrose, and Nanci Sirois, 31, of Windham, N.H. Nanci was the women's winner of last year's Derby Dash and the YMCA's past two triathlons held in September. Jim's time was 26:52 and Nanci's 43:32.

Dan Buckholz, 13, of Andover, won the 19-and-under category with a time of 34:18 and placed 19th overall. Paul Farnham, 28, of Andover, placed third in the 20-29 category with a time of 30:45, placing eighth overall. Cliff Howe, 43, of Andover, won the 40-49 group with a time of 29:37, placing fifth overall. Cliff is on the YMCA board of directors.

Marion McAdam of Andover placed first for the women in this age group. First in the new category, Merrimack Valley YMCA member, were Andoverites Tom McGrath, 36, and Phyllis Cutler, 43. Peter Comeau of Andover, husband of Lorene, the chair of the ANA Y's board of managers, won the three-mile competitive walk.

Cynthia Wright of Andover chaired this event. Volunteers of all ages filled a variety of capacities, from directing traffic, giving water at stops along the route to babysitting. After the race, egg tosses, three-legged and potato sack races for the kids were held and families enjoyed a cookout on the lawn of the Y on Haverhill Street.

Here are some more of the winners: age 19 and under: Dan Buckholz, 13, of Andover, 34:18, 19th; age 20-29, third: Paul Farnham, Andover, 30:45; age 40-49: Cliff Howe, Andover, 29:37; Marion McAdam, Andover, 31:08; first Merrimack Valley YMCA member: Tom McGrath, Andover, 32:47; Phyllis Cutler, Andover, 51:15; and first male in competitive walk, Peter Comeau, Andover, 32:36.

Malitsky and Sullivan teamed for a 6-0, 6-0 blitz of the Rangers' Steve Giordano and Kevin O'Loughlin, while Cullen and Manish Shah completed the 5-0 win with a 6-0, 6-1 romp over Eric Garcia and Steve DeSimone.

In the 5-0 decision over Central Catholic at the Merrimack College courts, Paul Bernardin (8-2 league, 10-2 overall) returned to whip Jed MacZuba (6-1, 6-2), Chiang hammered Jeff D'Urso (6-0, 6-0) and Capt. Dave Hughes whipped Mike Pascucci 6-0, 7-6 (8-6 tiebreaker).

In doubles, the Malitsky-Sullivan tandem popped Craig Douglas and Chris Miele (6-2, 6-0) and the Cullen-Bertetti duo edged Dan Kruschwitz and Matt Croteau 7-6 (7-4 tiebreaker), 6-4.

Andover's crucial 4-1 victory over Billerica was not as easy as it looks, with two of the four AHS wins requiring three sets.

In singles, Paul Bernardin defeated Christian Ahr (6-3, 6-4) and Chris Chiang rallied to beat Scott Christo (4-6, 6-2, 6-2).

The Warriors swept the doubles, Mike Cowhig and Dave Hughes taking it to a third-set tiebreaker before edging Conan Dailey and Mike Raybould of BMHS 7-5, 3-6, 7-6 (7-4) and Tim Sullivan joining forces with Rod Malitsky to beat Ty Munson and Phil Casalini 7-5, 6-3.

Eric Block, who spent some time at tennis camps in Florida, dropped a tough 6-2, 3-6, 5-7 decision to the Indians' Tim Gibson at third singles.

Andover Girls

The girls blitzed Haverhill 5-0 with singles' triumphs from Andrea Georgian over Jamie Farmer (6-1, 6-1), Mimi Bernardin over Jen Rowe (6-0, 6-0) and Rachel Roberts over Alexis DerBogoshian (7-5, 7-5).

In doubles action, Andrea Napolitano and Tracey Goodman swept Heather Mitchell and Brooke Harvey (6-3, 6-2), while Julie Doherty and Sarah Schmul trimmed Amy Coakley and Sarah Dyer (6-0, 6-3).

The 5-0 waltz against Methuen saw Bernardin stop Esther Potter (6-0, 6-1), Andrea Napolitano crunch Kristen Tarins (6-0, 6-1) and Sarah Skelton handle Courtney Briggs (6-1, 6-2).

Doubles' partners Keri Mazonson and Kim Heller belted Kelly Sheehan and Nickie Blouin (6-1, 6-2), while Betsy Lee and Cara Gack blasted Julie Sullivan and Rachel Cook

(6-0, 6-1).

The Lady Warriors shook up the lineup for Tewksbury, receiving singles' victories from Natalie LeMaitre over Amy Smith at No. 2 (6-2, 6-0) and Julie Doherty over Chrissie Fredrickson at No. 3 (6-2, 6-0).

Liz Block and Keri Mazonson cruised 6-3, 6-2 over Patty Doyle and Alison Kramer, while Stephanie Landers and Kristen Gresh completed the doubles' sweep 6-3, 5-7, 6-2 over Amanda Kramer and Bridget Merrill.

Kim Heller played first singles and fell to Tewksbury's Nicole Rheault (2-6, 5-7).

Billerica fell 4-1 with a sweep of the singles and a win at second doubles pacing Andover.

In singles, Andrea Georgian tripped up Vanessa Donadio (6-2, 6-1), Mimi Bernardin blanked Donna Dantas (6-0, 6-0) and Natalie LeMaitre trimmed Becky Behm (6-1, 6-2).

In doubles, Andrea Napolitano and Sarah Skelton outlasted Dawn Berkovitz and Michelle LeVasseur (7-5, 2-6, 6-4).

Karen Lottatore and Tracy Goodman were 7-5, 7-5 victims to Moira Breen and Kathy Cristello at first doubles.

EMass. Tournament

Paul Bernardin and Chris Chiang advanced to the Round-of-16 easily, sweeping past two opponents each in the single-elimination tournament.

Bernardin outstroked Steve Ferazani of Winchester (6-1, 6-1) and Sam Harrington of Manchester (6-4, 7-5), while Chiang destroyed Rob Graves of Austin Prep (6-1, 6-1) and Matt Filosa of Saugus (6-2, 6-1).

Eric Block, the Warriors' third singles representative, lost a 2-6, 0-6 decision to Burlington's Kevin Kotelly.

In doubles, No. 2 seeded Dave Hughes and Mike Cowhig blanked Saugus' No. 1 team of Doherty and Fauci (6-0, 6-0) in their lone match.

Rod Malitsky and Tim Sullivan had to play twice, ousting Tyngsboro's No. 1 team of Mike Cotter and Tim Johnson (6-1, 6-3) and Reading's top tandem of Bastiani and Ficken (6-4, 6-0).

This Saturday in Burlington, Hughes and Cowhig meet Hamilton-Wenham No. 1 Ball and Causen, while Malitsky and Sullivan battle Winchester High's No. 2 team of Nash and Sayre.

On the girls' side, Natalie LeMaitre competed and was ousted 1-6, 2-6.

Frosh ball hits good week

By Rick Harrison

Spectacular pitching performances by Justin Hesenius and Scott Eggert sparked the sizzling Andover High freshman baseball team to another perfect week, as the ninth grade juggernaut manhandled Lowell (9-0), Methuen (15-0) and Tewksbury (12-4).

Righthander Hesenius (4-0, one save) fired a no-hitter at Methuen, striking out 10, walking three and facing only 23 batters (two over the minimum).

That mound gem followed a brilliant one-hit shutout by Eggert (3-1) against Lowell, the left-hander coming within one scratch infield hit of a perfect game. Eggert struck out 15, didn't walk anyone and faced just 22 batters.

In the third game righty Andy Brown (3-0) had to "settle" for a complete-game six-hitter against Tewksbury, walking two and fanning four.

The big week left Coach Ken Maglio's club at 10-1 overall, following last year's 15-1 showing, and Andover entered this week's action tied for first place with Wilmington in the Merrimack Valley Conference.

Earlier this week the AHS frosh battled Methuen and had the first-place showdown with Wilmington. Tomorrow the locals travel to Dracut (3:30 p.m.).

John Shea led the freshmen in hitting through 11 games with a lofty .500 average (15-for-30), and he was closely followed by Hesenius at .462 (18-for-39), Scott Henry .441 (15-for-34), Josh Nelkin .432 (16-for-

Twins on top in early majors play

By Jim Arnold

Manager Steve Tisbert's Twins have yet to lose after three weeks of play in the Andover Little League majors division.

The Twins have played only interleague games against National League foes, and have run roughshod.

The team's 4-0 ledger includes wins this past week over the previously undefeated Braves and Cubs.

Andover major league teams play two halves; the Twins need two wins in their remaining four games to clinch the first half American League title.

Interleague play will conclude this week.

White Sox 9, Cardinals 7

Mark O'Sullivan's double in the seventh inning chased home the winning run, as the White Sox captured their first win of the season.

Mark Tropeano smacked a pair of hits and scored two runs, Greg Wojtkun did likewise, and hurler Chris Kearn was credited with the pitching win.

The Sox win overshadowed a perfect day at the plate for Cardinal David Shaffer, who lined four consecutive hits and scored four runs. Cardinal Jason Nicholson boomed an RBI triple, and threw out two White Sox would-be base thieves.

Cubs 5, Yankees 4

Brendan Long threw three shut-out innings in relief, fanning six, to boost the Cubs to a come-from-behind win over the feisty Yanks.

The Yankees went up 4-0 after two innings, paced by 10-year-old Ned Yetten's booming bat and George Secchiaroli's effective pitching.

But the Cubs chipped away; Shaun Connors did the most damage with three hits. Chris Rogers tripled in two runs, and Lucas Smith singled and played superlative defense.

Orioles 10, Pirates 6

Matt McCarthy pitched the distance, striking out seven, to give the O's their first win of the year. In addition, McCarthy slapped three hits.

Other key Oriole contributors were Billy Kearins, who accounted for three hits; Joey Jelson, with three hits and sterling defense; and Scott Ciruso, with two hits, two RBIs, and a stolen base.

For the Pirates, pitcher Louis Capobianco whiffed six in his three-inning stint, yielding just one hit. Chris Silvestro struck for two hits, and Jason Caverly turned in a sound game at catcher.

Twins 7, Cubs 2

David Salafia pitched three no-hit innings, cracked two hits, and scored two runs, to lead his squad past a talented Cub unit.

Brian Tisbert helped out with the two hits and two runs, Jon Adams did likewise, and Pat Sharkey chipped in with a pair of RBIs.

For the Cubs, Rob Busby tallied a hit, a run, and an RBI. Joe Long pitched two solid innings of relief, and Shaun Connors fielded flawlessly at second base.

Twins 10, Braves 3

This matchup of league titans was tight until the final frame when the Twins broke open the game with five runs.

Doing the most damage for the Twins were David Salafia, with two doubles and single; Jon Adams with three safeties; and Pat Sharkey, who slapped two hits, good for two RBIs.

Brian Tisbert and Salafia split the pitching chores for the torrid Twins.

Pat Annesse's two hits paced the Brave attack. Nikki Bilwakesh whacked a big hit, and Todd Wilson starred defensively.

Pirates 9, Red Sox 2

Lefthanded fireballer Jason Caverly shut down the defending town champions, fanning nine enroute to this complete game masterpiece.

His support at the plate came from Chris Silvestro, Nick Schwartz, and Matt Gilmore. Defensive Pirate wizardry was provided by Bobby Cronin.

Red Sox highlights included three hits from Robbie Oppenheim, three steady innings from hurler Howie Schlichting, and stellar field play from Jason Bellorad.

Indians 11, Giants 1

Stephen Vickers threw a complete game one-hitter to boost his Indians to their first triumph of the year. He got plenty of help, most notably from Mark Formichella, who drove in three runs and made two fine stabs in centerfield. Jacky Glazbrook also stood tall, cracking two hits, good for two RBIs.

Giant shoes were filled by Mark Edwards, who accounted for his young team's lone hit — a double. Defensively, Josh Prudden and Scott Petersen tracked down several potential Indian hits.

Bryan Smith is .333 with 6-for-18, three doubles and seven RBI; Curt Soloman .325 with 13-for-40 and nine RBI, and Dave Blank .298 with 14-for-47, two doubles, one triple and 12 RBI.

Blank is the league's top hurler with a 6-0 record, two saves and a 0.37 ERA. In 38 innings he's yielded just nine hits, walked 17 and struck out 48.

Eggert is also 5-0 with a 1.73 ERA. In 36-1/3 innings he has allowed 21 hits, walked 13 and whiffed 40.

Andover, 16-2

The Golden Warriors did all their damage in two destructive innings, scoring eight runs in the bottom of the first and sixth stanzas.

Frosh softball improves to 9-2

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High freshman girls' softball team pounded out three more victories last week to improve to 9-2 overall.

The latest victims were North Andover (15-8), Methuen (18-14) and Tewksbury (16-11), stretching the local club's current win streak through four games.

Andover, battling Methuen and Wilmington for the Merrimack Valley Conference championship this spring, is being led offensively (through 11 games) by leftfielder Kirstin Nowell (.706), first baseman Beth Everett (.600), shortstop Marcia Gemmell (.525) and centerfielder Gina Paone (.552).

Third baseman Katie Walsh has 20 RBI, Gemmell 16, Everett 15, second baseman-pitcher Amy Cassidy 10 and Paone eight.

Sarah Dziadul is the top pitcher with a 6-1 record and 24 strikeouts in 42 innings. Amy Cassidy is 2-0 and Nicole Farley 1-1.

Other members of the team are Jenna DeMarco, Suzanne Doucette, Tara Griffin, Karry Hagerty, Becky Levine, Tricia McNeice, Heather Norton and Sharon Su.

Dave Gangi is the head coach, Jay Darin the assistant coach and Steve Tisbert a volunteer assistant.

The freshman girls, 9-7 last year, opened the season with a 17-12 win over Tewksbury. Methuen edged Andover, 18-16, and the locals then clicked off four wins against Wilmington (10-7, eight innings), Dracut twice (21-14 and 24-17) and Chelmsford (21-4).

North Andover handed Andover its second loss, 15-10, but a 9-5 triumph over Lawrence launched the current, four-

AHS baseball moves to make history

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High varsity baseball machine, currently in the process of putting together one of the finest regular seasons in the school's history, reached or approached three more impressive milestones last week.

A 16-2 romp over Haverhill enabled the Golden Warriors to clinch their third straight Eastern Mass. Division 1 Tournament berth.

A subsequent 5-2 triumph over Small School leader Tewksbury gave AHS a sweep of the season series with the Redmen (12-2), and gave Large School frontrunner Andover the best overall record in the Merrimack Valley Conference.

Monday afternoon's 2-0 triumph over Methuen, with Dave Blank throwing yet another one-hit shut-out, boosted the team's record to 14-1.

Coach Dave Bettencourt also hiked his career victory total to 99, and he may have achieved the coveted 100-win plateau yesterday if AHS defeated Wilmington.

The Warriors also entered this week with a 4½-game lead over Large School runner-up Chelmsford, needing just two more victories to clinch its second division title in three years.

Andover is idle tomorrow and returns to action Monday afternoon at Dracut (3:30 p.m.).

Andover Leaders

Junior catcher Brett Hammond and junior designated hitter Joe Iarrobino ranked 1-2 in the MVC batting race through weekend action.

Hammond was hitting .436 on 17-for-39, five doubles, one game-winning home run and 18 RBI. Iarrobino checked in at .429 with 18-for-42, nine doubles, three triples, seven RBI, 13 stolen bases and seven RBI.

Chris Eggert is hitting .400 with 14-for-45, five doubles, one triple, one home run and 14 RBI.

pitcher, working four respectable innings before sophomore righty Bob Sheehan, Curt Soloman and Chris Hall finished up with one inning apiece.

"Jimmy had trouble finding his rhythm," said Coach Bettencourt. "He was battling it all the way, but it was nice to see a sophomore hang in there and show the poise he did. He showed a lot of guts and maturity."

"After four innings he'd thrown 77 pitches and we figured it was time to get him out of there. We had several other kids who needed the (mound) work anyway."

Hanning yielded three hits, walked three and struck out five. Sheehan surrendered two hits and fanned two, while Soloman and Hall hurled one perfect inning apiece.

Joe Iarrobino led the attack with a spectacular 5-for-5 day, including three doubles, one triple and four RBI. Dave Blank added a triple, single and two RBI, while Dave Carriere hammered two doubles.

In the eight-run first Iarrobino doubled, sophomore Jim Landry walked, Blank reached on an error, Curt Soloman ripped a two-run single, Brett Hammond was safe on an error to rescue a run, Matt Orlando and Carriere walked, Peter Reming was hit by a pitch to force home a run, Iarrobino's second at-bat of the inning produced a three-run triple to right-centerfield, and he scored when Landry's grounder was misplayed.

In the sixth Iarrobino again doubled, Landry walked, Dana Orlando laced an RBI single, Blank drilled a two-run triple, Bobby Sheehan clouted an RBI double, Sean Gill spiked a run-scoring single, Matt Orlando singled, Dave Carriere doubled for a run, Reming lofted a sacrifice fly and Iarrobino ripped an RBI single.

Andover, 5-2

Chris Eggert, well-rested after taking almost two weeks off from the mound, tossed a route-going four-hitter with seven strikeouts and three walks in the showdown battle against Tewksbury.

Eggert also went 3-for-4 at the plate for Andover, which erased a 2-1 deficit with four runs in the top of the sixth at Hazel Field.

Redmen lefty Ken Chandler (5-1) suffered his first loss.

"Chris was tentative at the beginning of the game," said Bettencourt. "But he got better and stronger as it went along."

Sean Mackey's RBI double gave Tewksbury a 1-0 lead in the first, but AHS tied it in the second when Matt Orlando reached on a fielder's choice, stole second and crossed on Peter Reming's two-out single.

Tewksbury regained the upper hand in the bottom of the fifth when Chandler walked, was bunted along and scored on Chris Buckley's single.

Trailing 2-1 and running out of time, Andover put together a four-run uprising in the sixth. Brett Hammond singled, Matt Orlando was hit by a pitch, Sheehan sacrificed, Reming walked to load the bases, Bryan Smith beat out an infield single to tie the game 2-2, Eggert grounded a two-run single to rightfield, and with runners and first and third Smith crossed on a delayed double steal.

Defensive standouts were Soloman at third base, Reming at short, Matt Orlando at second base and Hammond behind the plate.

"We've asked a lot of Hammond this spring — and he's delivered a lot," said Bettencourt.

Andover High girls' track remains undefeated

By Rick Harrison

The seemingly-invincible Andover High girls' track team, which has won everything in sight this spring, recently cruised to the State Class B Relay championship and remained undefeated in Merrimack Valley Conference dual meets with a 100-36 romp over Lowell.

The Golden Warrior boys almost matched the girls' effort, placing second in the Class B Relays and romping past Lowell 94-51.

Both AHS teams are leading their respective MVC Large School Divisions with perfect 4-0 records, and neither has really been challenged. The boys' narrowest victory margin has been 39 points and the girls' 30 points.

The girls, who also won the Wilmington Invitational earlier this spring, have extended their three-season dual meet win streak to 22 straight.

Both squads were scheduled to run at Haverhill yesterday.

Andover Girls

The Andover girls, two-time defending MVC titlists and reigning State Class B champs, played the part of rude hosts as they lapped the field in the Class B Relays at the Lovely oval.

The Lady Warriors placed first in four events and received exceptional individual performances from sophomore speedsters Nicole Angelos and Jill Ippolito.

Andover's 80 points easily outdistanced runner-up Tewksbury's 46.

The swift foursome of Angelos, Ippolito, freshman Cara O'Handley and junior Maureen Maginnis were double winners in the 4x100 relay (51.2) and 4x200 relay (1:50.1).

Junior Leanna Mills, Carrie Lumley and Stephanie Couture captured the javelin toss with a combined total of 288 feet, and the high jump trio of Heather Rotondi, Melissa Salazar and Gillian Kiley soared 14'6" for first place.

Andover was second in the long jump with sophomores Jill Ippolito, Layne Whitley and Amy Heseltine, second in the discus behind Methuen's state record effort with Betsy Tanin, Leslie Brammer and Ayana Littrean, second in the shot put with Mills, Littrean and Debbie Sullivan, and second in the 4x400 relay run by sophomore Holly Clark, Capt. Brenna Cronin, Christine Doyle and Heseltine.

The Warriors' tremendous depth continued to show with a fourth in the 400-meter shuttle hurdles, courtesy of Doyle, Clark, Jen Romig and sophomore Kasie Kearins.

A pair of fifth places completed the scoring as Capt. Katie Boness, Heather Holmender, sophomore Grace Perry and Capt. Michelle Toth were fifth in the 4-mile relay and Krista Nickerson, sophomore Tania Pierce and Cronin were fifth in the triple jump.

In the dual meet romp over Lowell, Nicole Angelos and Holly Clark were both double winners and the Lady Warriors placed first in 12 of 16 events. AHS won every field event and swept the long jump, discus and javelin.

Angelos captured the 100-meter dash (13.2) and 200-meter dash (27.5), while Clark cleaned house in the hurdles with a 17.2 clocking in the 100-meter highs and a 49.5 time in the 300-meter intermediates.

Other individual winners were high jumper Heather Rotondi (4'10"), long jumper Jill Ippolito (15'1"), triple jumper Brenna Cronin (31'5"), shot putter Debbie Sullivan (30'5"), Betsy Tanin in the discus (90'6"), Leanna Mills in the javelin (95'8") and Amy Heseltine in the 400-meter dash (64.0).

Completing sweeps were Layne Whitley and Heseltine (long jump), Ayana Littrean and Leslie Brammer (discus), Carrie Lumley and Stephanie Couture (javelin).

Other runners-up were Melissa Salazar (high jump), miler Michelle Toth, two-miler Katie Boness, hurdler Christine Doyle (100 meters), Jill Ippolito (100), Brenna Cronin (400), Grace Park (800) and Maureen Maginnis (200).

Completing the rout with thirds were Laura Hebeisen (triple jump), Mills (shot), miler Grace Perry and freshman Sarah Wallace (800).

Andover Boys

The Warriors finished second to Reading in the Class B Relays, the powerful Rockets piling up 91 points to the Warriors 67. Stoughton was a distant third with 37 points.

Andover's only first place came in the pole vault where junior Andy Carleton cleared 12 feet, Jason Fox cleared 11 feet and Phil Meckel soared 9'6" for a 32'6" total.

The distance medley quartet of Tim Parker, Alex Sumburg, Scott O'Leary and Capt. Jon Bicknell was second, while the triple jump trio of game win streak. Andover had key contests earlier this week with fellow MVC challengers Methuen and Wilmington. Tomorrow the club travels to Dracut (3:30 p.m.).

ring to the suspected dump site.

The Conservation Commission cited the company in 1987 for a hazardous materials spill along the banks of, and into, the Shawsheen River, according to the health director.

Both sites require more investigation to determine how hazardous they are and whether they present a threat to public health, according to Mr. Penney.

But legal work also needs to be done to find out who is going to pay for the necessary testing and any cleanup that eventually may be required.

Changed owners

BTL is a Canadian-owned company that makes resins for laminates used in a wide range of products, including Fiberglas insulation, automotive air filters and printed circuit boards.

The aerospace industry uses the laminates in rockets and missiles and BTL products were part of the Voyager airplane that first circled the world without refueling.

In its best year, the Andover plant produced 30 million pounds of resin, according to Mike Thompson, materials manager at the company.

BTL bought the plant in 1986 from Reichold Chemical. Reichold had been operating the plant since 1954.

BTL has now sold the business to Oxy Chemical, based in northern New York state, but will retain ownership of the property. Oxy decided last fall to consolidate its operations into its Buffalo, N.Y., plant and has nearly completed the move from Andover.

Confirmed hazardous site

The Department of Environmental Protection has classified the property as a confirmed hazardous waste release site, and has a file that contains evidence that barrels of waste are buried on the site, according to Mr. Penney.

Former employees also have said that an area was used for a dump site when Reichold owned the plant.

At the time of the sale, Reichold signed an indemnification agreement with BTL, releasing the buyer from any responsibility for any hazardous materials buried on the site.

A copy of that agreement is in the hands of Tom Arnold, special town counsel. But Mr. Penney questions the validity of the agreement since the state has a law that holds the landowner responsible for materials on his property regardless of the source.

"This site has been on the DEP list for about five years," Mr. Penney said.

Zachary Peters, of DEP, said the site is an important one, but he said not enough testing has been done to categorize it as a priority. He said the state doesn't have the people power to investigate it at this time.

"There are too many cases and no manpower to deal with them," Mr. Peters said this week. "That doesn't necessarily mean that it is not important."

In 1987, the Conservation Commission cited BTL when chemicals overflowed a waste pit and spilled into the Shawsheen River, according to Mr. Penney.

The pit was used to mix waste product with other chemicals to neutralize the materials so they could be trucked away and dumped in a non-hazardous landfill, according to Mr. Penney. But without the testing, nobody knows what stage the chemicals were at when the overflow occurred.

The ConsCom ordered soil testing to be done at the time, but BTL appealed that order to the DEP.

Getting the site on the DEP priority list would start the clock ticking on the company having to come up with a schedule to begin the risk assessment studies.

"Our objective is to get it classified as a priority site so there is a faster plan for remediation," Mr. Penney said.

In the meantime, the town will continue to work with the company to get as much done as possible on a voluntary basis.

"We're trying to convince them to voluntarily do the same thing for the town that they would have to do for the state by law because the state doesn't have the money," Mr. Penney said.

Cooperating in cleanup

Wilf Kimball, BTL's chief executive officer, has been cooperating with the town in the idling of the

At least one neighbor wants action — now

Mary Lou O'Leary, of 51 Tewksbury St., has started collecting signatures on a petition asking the Department of Environmental Protection to actively pursue the investigation of the chemical spill and suspected waste dumping at BTL Specialty Resins Corp.

Ms. O'Leary's house is across the river from the 77 Lowell Junction Road plant and she is concerned about the health of her family.

"I just think they should at least do the tests," Ms. O'Leary said.

Ms. O'Leary said some neighbors are concerned that what the DEP might find could hurt property values in the area, but she and her husband, Michael Jon, have decided that assuring the health and safety of their children is more important than their home.

plant and in the cleanup process, according to Tony Torrisi, acting town manager.

Approximately 2,000 barrels of waste stored on the site in February have been removed and disposed of. A private hazardous waste disposal firm has been handling the cleanup and should complete removal of all the resin product and other chemicals used in production from the site by the end of the month.

The whole process is being monitored by Charles Murnane, deputy fire chief, and the health director.

"They've lived up to their word since we met with them in March as far as removing materials. All the hazardous waste in 55 gallon drums is gone," Mr. Penney said this week of BTL.

"We're down to about two truckloads of material going to Oxy," Mr. Thompson said this week during a tour of the plant.

Red Sox defeat Dodgers, 6-1

The second week of action in the Andover Senior League baseball program (14- to 15-years old) demonstrated steady improvement in the play of all six teams. The public is invited to attend games, played each weeknight and at Saturday noon at the Andover High School junior varsity field (nearest the football stands).

On Monday, the Red Sox main battery, consisting of pitcher Paul Allard and catcher Nate Roberts and Fred Sunderland's hitting and base-stealing, produced a 6-1 victory over a spirited Dodgers team led by Chris Sintros' two-for-three batting and Mike Shepard's RBI plus his diving catch of a foul popup to spike a scoring threat.

The Cubs held on for a 6-5 win over the Yankees on Tuesday. Chris O'Connell led the Yankee offense with a double to left and a long single and intelligent baserunning. Cub hitters Matt Pranka (three safeties), Steve Hosmer and Ryan Moynihan matched those offensive feats while Rob Miele made a sensational catch in deep centerfield, relaying to second to double up the Yankee runner. Mark Sabath's play at the hot corner, featuring two strikes to the plate, each knocking down a Cub score, kept the Yankees in this one all the way.

On Wednesday, the Astros took advantage of one awkward defensive stanza by the Braves to run up seven runs on two hits. Braves' hitter Mike Sullivan went three-for-three while Albie Gianregorio shone at bat and with an unassisted double play at first base. Damon Bellorado led the Astros' offense with two hits while Pat Walsh spun them a two earned-run victory with a final 11-4 score.

Thursday's game found the Dodgers stymied as they led the Cubs at the beginning and at the end but lost it in the middle when their rally to take the lead in the top of the sixth was cancelled by clouds that forced play to stop before they got their last ups. Offensive stars for the Dodgers included Chris Sintros (three-for-four), David Charland (two-for-two) and John Faldetta, who delivered what appeared to be the game-winning RBI in support of his own tenacious pitching effort. The Cubs stayed close with solid clutch hitting, especially Matt Wolcott's three-run double and Brian

Flanagan's two base hits. Pitcher Wolcott turned a sharp comeback into a 1-2-3 double play that enabled the Cubs to escape with the 7-6 win.

Merrimack College athletic director Bob DeGregorio has made his varsity fields available to the Senior League and Little League for several scheduled practice slots each week. Friday's puddles postponed the Braves-Red Sox match to Saturday morning at the college. The Red Sox' offense took a 4-0 lead into the Braves' seventh, then barely held on as the Braves scored three and left three more on base. The Braves' rally was initiated by Mike Sullivan's double and singles by Jeff Lembo, Sam McLellan, Frank Paone and Jon Larobino. Sullivan and Lembo split the loss on the mound, but the 16-strikeout combined performance by Red Sox hurlers Jeff Brammer and Todd Murray dominated the early going.

In the regular Saturday noon game, the Yankees took an early lead, highlighted by Kramer O'Neill's first-inning, three-run double down the line in left. The Astros scratched to a 9-8 lead in the bottom of the sixth and held off a last-minute foray in the Yankee seventh to claim the win. Ten Astros reached on base hits, led by Peter Murphy's three safeties, while J.P. Ciruso and Dan Hansberry recorded two each. Yankee third baseman Peter Daniels showed good promise while Astro pitchers Chris Kollar, relieved by Murphy, held on for the win.

Capt. Mike Kelley, sophomore Kevin Ring and Chris Foltz also finished in the runner-up position.

The 400-meter shuttle hurdle crew of Glenn Kunene, Jason Dowd, Jim Himber and sophomore Jason McCue was one of six third place finishers.

Also third was the 4x100 meter relay team of sophomore Jamie Damon, sophomore Jason Hastings, junior Joe Hastings and Capt. Jeff Ring; the sprint medley crew of Mike Kelley, junior Mark Dodge, Ron Park and junior Matt Perry; the 4x200 foursome of Hastings, Carleton, Damon and Jeff Ring; the shot put trio of Dodge, junior Ryan Beal and sophomore Erik Greenstein, and the discus threesome of Capt. Brian Donnellan, Hunter Lochmann and Will Lowry.

The 4-mile quartet of Perry, O'Leary, Brian Twomey and Bicknell placed fifth, as did the javelin trio of sophomore Dan Feeley, Pat Finn and Donnellan.

Rounding out the AHS scorers was the sixth place 4x800 relay team of Ken Hahn, Andy Brent, Kyle Blais and Bob Dawley.

In the dual meet destruction of Lowell, Glenn Kunene was a triple winner, Mike Kelley a double winner, and Andover placed first in 13 of 16 events.

Kunene soared 20'6½" in the long jump, clocked 16.5 in the 110-meter high hurdles and 41.9 in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles.

Kelley surpassed 40 feet in the triple jump and won the 400-meter dash in 53.1.

Additional individual winners were shot putter Ryan Beal (46'7½"), Brian Donnellan in the discus (125'9"), high jumper Kevin Ring (5'8"), Jeff Ring in the 100 meters (11.4), Jon Bicknell in the mile (4:41.0), Matt Perry in the 800 meters (2:07.0) and Andy Carleton in the 200 meters (22.9).

AHS girls' and boys' track are still champs

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High boys' and girls' varsity track teams kept rolling towards Merrimack Valley Conference dual meet championships, both remaining undefeated with victories over Haverhill last week.

The girls, 5-0-0, coasted to a 96-40 triumph as sophomores Jill Ippolito and Holly Clark combined for four first place finishes.

The boys, 5-0-0, struggled a bit more before three individual victories by senior Capt. Jeff Ring propelled the Golden Warriors to a 78½-66½ decision.

Weekend action brought a mild surprise when Andover failed to win its annual Boosters Invitational Meet for only the fourth time in 31 years.

The 27-time champion Golden Warriors piled up 233 boys' and girls' combined points, but had to take a back seat to Reading which amassed 262.

The Methuen girls edged Andover, 126-118, and the Reading boys had a 154-115 advantage over AHS.

HUNNEMAN & COMPANY • REALTORS®

Better Homes and Gardens

6 Park Street, Andover, MA 01810 TELEPHONE (508) 475-4477

From the desk of John W. McCusker, Manager of the Hunneman Andover office

Last week I received a flyer purportedly showing the sales of real estate during the first quarter of 1990. I felt so sorry for the company at the bottom—with only one sale. I thought I would write to them and tell them to cheer up: things were bound to improve. And then I realized it was my own office! Yet hadn't we sold 17 homes in March alone? Hadn't we had the best quarter in three years.

The fine print explained a few things. The current market explained the tactics even more succinctly. We all know it's a tough market out there, but rather than pit one agency against the other, we've always encouraged cooperation with other real estate firms to best serve our clients. We decided to stick to our principles: don't knock the competition in a misleading way, simply explain our own strengths.

The truth is we've worked hard since January 1 to sell 52 properties out of our Andover office. We employed our Home Marketing and Merchandising Systems with great success. Our network of 30 offices and Boston Relocation department helped immensely to sell 39 homes in Andover and North Andover.

We at Hunneman believe in providing accurate information and honest advice. We'll rest our case on these principles.

Sincerely,

John W. McCusker

John W. McCusker, Manager

P.S. That other agency never asked what properties we had sold, but you can. Simply call and we'll send you a print-out of our 52 sales.

Replacing Dr. Seifert

By Lisa A. Boudreau

A little more than one week has passed since an advertisement for a superintendent of schools in Andover was placed in a Boston Sunday newspaper and a few expressions of interest have trickled into the town's personnel office, said Mary Kelvie-Lyman, director of personnel.

Four members of the School Committee held a workshop Tuesday night to discuss the approach the committee will take in the search. Member Susan Poore was absent.

Dr. Kenneth Seifert, superintendent of Andover schools for the past 22 years, will retire next year. He will leave the system January 1991 for a six-month sabbatical and officially retire at the end of that school year.

The four members, Chairman Andres Salazar, Richard Hubbell, Michael Frishman and Christopher Outwin, discussed the schedule of the search, continued advertising and working on naming a citizen screening committee to assist them in the initial process.

Deadline for applications is July 31. The committee plans to name a finalist by Nov. 1. The person would start in January of next year.

An advertisement will also run in Education Weekly, a national professional magazine. Neither ad contained a salary figure. According to Mr. Hubbell, who began organizing information for the search last fall,

To date, just seven residents have expressed interest in serving on the superintendent screening committee. The School Committee wants at least two more members.

salaries for superintendents in Massachusetts range from $60,000 to $120,000. Dr. Seifert will earn $90,000 this year.

The ad calls for applicants with at least 10 years' experience in education, five of which must be in administration, as well as strong management and financial skills. The committee said it would also expect applicants to have a master's degree in education.

The committee decided not to require residency in Andover. Mr. Hubbell told the committee it would have to pay a much higher salary if residency were required.

To date, only seven residents have expressed interest in serving on a screening committee. A consensus wasn't reached on the number of residents for the screening committee, but nine members was the maximum suggested. The committee will continue to solicit names for the screening committee.

Three months ago this area at BTL Specialty Resins Corp. on Lowell Junction Road held approximately 2,000 55-gallon drums of hazardous waste. This week only these 100 to 150 empty barrels were still waiting to be removed from the outside storage area.

BTL is on schedule

One tankload of product is also waiting for testing before it can be shipped, he said.

Mr. Penney is still concerned about a retention pond that collects the runoff from the plant property.

The runoff is pumped across the Shawsheen River into lined tanks in which the heavy materials settle out of the waste water before it is pumped to the Greater Lawrence Sanitary District treatment plant.

What concerns the health director is the 6-12 inches of "gel-like" sludge in the bottom of the retention pond and making sure BTL is planning to remove it.

Only nine of the plant's 57 employees are still working at the plant and eight of the nine will be gone by May 31, according to Mr. Thompson. One employee will remain as caretaker to watch over the site for the next two years in an arrangement worked out with Mr. Kimball.

BTL will maintain the drainage retention and fire alarm systems for at least the next two years while it tries to sell the plant.
